Was the Refusal to Purchase Silver Bullion Inspired

*BY THE GOLDBUG CONSPIRATORS?

Gossip About the Secretary's Decision and Its Effect,

OTHER NEWS OF THE NATION'S CAPITAL

Some Figures Showing the Offers of Silver. A Resolution That Will Be Fought. Tre Appropriation Bills.

Washington, July 5 .- (Special.)-The action of the treasury in declining to buy silver today at the market price the metal brought in New York, on the ground that the price is an artificial one, is bitterly resented by the silver men here. They see in it another link in the chain of the conspiracy which encircles the world to destroy silver as a money metal.

They admit that under the law the treasary has the entire month to purchase the 4,500,000 ounces under the Sherman act. The custom has been, however, to buy on three days of the week-Monday, Wednes-day and Friday. Mr. Carlisle even claims to be able to wait until the last day of the month to buy the whole supply, but this would be running the risk of having the market cornered on them.

There is great dissatisfaction here over the refusal to purchase the silver accord-were, would probably meet with defeat.

The Offers of Silver.

Inquiry at the treasury department today is to whether the amount of silver offered the government was as large now as formerly, developed the fact that for the first six months of the current calendar year the offers aggregated 52,300,000 ounces, while for the same period last year of 6,950,000, which would indicate that the production of silver was not falling off in the United States. The amount of silver bullion imported for the first six months of the current calendar year, including that in ores, was 8,471,000 ounces, while there has been exported 11,968,000. Of the amount of silver offered to the government during this period 27,000,000 ounces were purchased.

Will Fight the Resolution.

The proposition which has been talked of to adopt a resolution at the extra session giving the president the power to suspend until such a time as he may see fit the purchase of the silver bullion meets with the nen-approval of the Sherman law, for they believe that the effect of such a resolution in the hands of Mr. Cleveland, whose views on silver are known, would be a shipped until there had passed a receipt for these orders. AS TO THE MONETARY SITUATION.

Important Meeting of New York Business Men Today.
New Jork, July 5.—Much interest is being manifested in the special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce called tomorrow. The purpose of the meeting is to consider the present disturbed condition of the finances of the country and to pass resolutions expressing the views of the chamber regarding the present state of things and ber should consider most timely and efficient for remedying existing evils. These members who are most actively urging the cham-ber to take a strong stand were busy today bringing together men who represent in-terests in various parts of the nation. "How New York feels and thinks is pretty well known," said a member today.

"That will be emphasized I hope. But we wish also to hear sectional views, if there are any such. In this way the chamber's decision may have weight outside of the state and as far as its members have influence."

The chief features in the monetary situation today, according to several of the leading bank presidents, were unrest, a lack of confidence and a scarcity of currency. The latter is apparently becoming a very serious matter and some banks are pretty hard pushed to secure enough to meet the demands upon them. Late on Monday afternoon orders were received by telegraph for large amounts of currency from Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

A dispatch from Philadelphia today reports the refusal of a bank in that city to pay a check on it for $150,000 in cash. The holder of the check, it is said, would lasist on the check being paid in cash today. The bank can pay it all in silver dollars if it cared to do so.

Banks that Keep Their Gold. One of the most influential members of the clearing house said this afternoon: "It is all nonsense, this talk about actual scarcity of currency, but if everybody keeps on talking about it there will soon be one The banks have got plenty of cash, but hoard their gold. They have got $100, 000,000 in gold and currency. The proper thing for them to do would be to take some of their gold to the subtreasury and get currency for it."

Several bank officers called at the sub-treasury this afternoon to see what they could get in the way of currency if they needed any. They say the subtreasury will be able to furnish any probable demand. The assistant treasurer, however informed the bank officers that the sub informed the bank officers that the sub-treasury would continue to do as it had done, namely, to give the banks all the currency they needed, small notes in ex-change for greenbacks, gold certificates or gold coin and for notes of the de-nomenations of $10 and upwards; large treasury notes would be received.

Locked in Trust Company's Vaults. The orders for currency by mail this norning were reported as light, but it was said that, in view of Monday's experience, be shipped until there had passed a receipt at present only $13,000,000 of currency on hand, but it can draw for two or three mill-ions more from Washington, if occasion re-

The clearing house issued loan certifi-The clearing house issued loan certificates amounting to $5,000,000 today, thus making the total amount $22,115,000.

With reference to the difficulty the Philadelphia banks have had in getting currency from New York, it is said, that as much as $5,000,000 was sent them last week.

It has been suggested in Philadelphia that that city should be made a central received. It has been suggested in Philadelphia that that city should be made a central reserve city for national banks, the same as Chicago. If that were done, it is believed by some Philadelphians that from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, which are now kept by Pennslyvania banks in this city would be kept in Philadelphia instead. A lending New York bank president, however, today laughed at the suggestion and remarked that the Philadelphia banks would still be obliged to keep large balances in this city. "The Philadelphia banks." he said, "are too slow. They should all take out plenty of clearing house certificates and that would release sufficient currency to pay the money they owe to the New York banks."

DEMANDING THEIR DEPOSITS. A Run on the Banks at Pueblo, Col.—Several

Pueblo, Col., July 5.—The bank panic did not reach Pueblo until this morning, but then it came with a vengeance. A week or more past large withdrawals have been made from the banks almost daily and the American National, of which O. P. H. Baxter is president, and Robert Gibson is vice president, when it opened for business this morning found a large number of depositors warting to take out their money. The crowd continued to grow and it soon became evident that with the ready cash on hand they could not hold out, and about 11 o'clock they closed. The notice posted stated that the bank would commence business soon again and that the assets were $500,000 and the liabilities $350,000. Runs had already commenced on both 000. Runs had already commenced on both the Western National and the First National. The Western National closed its doors before the Western National and the First National. The Western National closed its doors before noon. They have deposits of over a million dollars, and have always been considered very strong.

Hundreds of people stood in and about the First National bank today and depositors were paid as fast as the paying teller could attend to them. The general expectation is that the First National will be able to nav their creditors in full when called for and that they cannot be forced to close. President Thatcher, when seen by a reporter, said they had a hard run, but that he thought the worst was over, and he thought they would be able to meet all demands.

The Central National, of which Delos L. Holden is president, closed at moon. This bank does a light business, but withdrawals of deposits of late have been so heavy that they could not stand any further runs. They thought it best to close. Their assets are about $170,000 and liabilities about $70,000. A sort of run was also made on the Pueblo Savings bank, but they took advantage of the law which allows them sixty days and the bank is regarded as perfectly safe.

There is a much better feeling this evening and the worst is believed to be passed. All of the closed banks can pay in full as soon as they realize on their collateral.

Justice Blatchford's Condition.

Newport R. I., July 5.—Justice Blatchford is in a critical condition. He is continually losing strength and vitality and his physician finds it necessary to make frequent calls. No information is yet obtainable from the house, but it is reported that he still continues to retain his mental faculties, though obliged to give up all work. He is also reported as now refusing everything except liquid food.

Killed While Out Driving.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 5.—Will Sturn, a well-known ofl operator, with his wife and baby, were driving on Peddler's run yesterday afternoon when the horse became frightened and ran off. Mrs. Sturn and baby were thrown from the buggy and instantly killed and Mr. Sturn was so badly mangled that he will die. The horse fell over the cliff and was so badly injured that it had to be shot.

Supporters of the Queen Marked for Slaughter-Claus Spreckels and Minister Blount to Be Killed.

Honolulu, June 28, via San Francisco Developments of the past six days have been three arrests for conspiracy to overthrow the provinsional government, a threat against the life of Claus Spreckles and an organization of a society within the ranks of the annexationists for the purpose of shooting down such royalists in the event of any open attack upon the present government. Claus Spreckles found on his gate a few days ago a placard ornamented with skulls and crossbones and bearing the inscription: "Gold and silver will not stop lead." He laid the matter before minister Blount and the latter forwarded Spreckles's statement to the provisional governments The names of the persons arrested for conspiracy are T. B. Walker, E. C. Crick and Archibald Livelain. They are all English and the British consul was disposed to interfere in their behalf, but dropped the matter when informed of the nature of the charges. The government claims to have evidence against these men showing that they were forming a plot to blow up the government buildings and then shoot down the annexationists when they should rush to the scene. A large number of persons are being watched by the authorities. Six or seven hundred annexationists have formed a "Citizens' Reserve." They are armed with rifles and have selected certain supporters of the ex-queen whose names are known and marked them for slaughter in the event of a royalist outbreak. A member of this organization gives a list of names of those marked for assassination and says that in addition to prominent Hawaiians it includes Claus Spreckles and Minister Blount in case they interfere in any fight that may occur.

IS THERE BLOOD ON THE MOON P A Sensational Story That Comes from South

Columbia, S. C., July 5.-(Special.)-Concerning a sensational rumor that was current at Greenwood yesterday on the occasion of the reunion of the confederate survivors, The Evening Journal today publishes the following:

"There is blood on the moon, and there

"There is blood on the moon, and there may be blood from the ranks of the reformers. It was expected that the morning papers would contain a sensational letter from one of the state officers preferring grave charges against one of the higher officers of the state, but it did not come. The story comes from the inner charmed circles of the reformers that there is a little unpleasant ness existing between United States Senator J. L. M. Irby and Adjutant and Inspector General H. L. Farley, and a letter from the latter is expected to appear in the public print within the next day or two denouncing the junior senator as a liar and applying other equality uncomplimentary terms to him. "In case this is done, a personal encounter can hardly be avoided. It is thought the trouble arose at the time of the election of Senator Irby by the legislature and was caused by a remark from General Farley to the effect that he thought the trouble arose at the time of the election could have been made. Since that time it is alleged that the feeling has been intensified by certain telegrams sent to this state from Washington, alleged to have been sent my Mr. J. H. Tiliman, reflecting upon General Farley, while in reality they were the product of Senator Irby. This is the situation as it is gathered today and interesting developments are daily expected. General Farley is not in the city."

General Field Opens the Campaign - He

Talks of the Sherman Act. Richmond, Va., July 5.—(Special.)—General James G. Field, of Albemarle county, this state, who last year was a candidate for vice state, who last year was a candidate for vice president of the people's party, passed through Richmond this afternoon en route home from Midlothian, where he made a speech yesterday, which is regarded as outlining in part the plan of campaign of the Virginia populists in the fall election for governor and members of the legislature. General Field declared that President Cleveland had not dealt fairly with the people in calling an extra session of congress when he said that the present perilous condition of the country is largely the result of a financial policy which the executive branch of the government finds embodied in unwise laws which must be executed until repealed by congress. He contended that hota Cleveland and Harrison had executed only a part of the Sherman act. The fallure to execute the law in full had abstracted from the treasury $48, 200,000 in gold and this act of the executive, said General Field, was not only without authority of law, but was directly against the language of the act and the intention of congress.

A BANKER'S DAUGHTER MISSING.

Miss Edith Drake's Mysterious Disappea

New York, July 5.—An evening paper says that Miss Edith Drake, twenty-seven years old, daughter of James M. Drake, the milold, daughter of James M. Drake, the millonaire banker, has disappeared mysteriously and her parents and friends are much alarmed. They have asked the police to help search for her, because they think her mind is somewhat affected. She was deeply infatuated with Samuel D. McGibney, a builder, who is a year younger than Miss Drake. McGibney is said to have made a trip out of term at a time corresponding with the dis-McGibney is said to have made a trip out of town at a time corresponding with the disappearance of Miss Drake, but as yet there has been no suggestion that they have eloped. Miss Drake and McGibney were engaged to be married about a year ago, but without the consent of her parents. When the subject was broached to Miss Drake's father he doubted the sincerity of McGibney's affection for the girl and forbade the marriage on account, it is alleged, of her mental condition. Miss Drake was last seen at one of the up-town hotels on Broadway last Monday night. She appeared to be greatly agitated and told a friend that she and McGibney loved each other, but that her payents opposed their union and that she had been driven from her home. She was advised to go home, but told the friend that if she returned to her home she would be arrested. Before she left the hotel Miss Drake promised to return home, but has not yet appeared there. When she does it is probable that the necessary meas-ures will be taken, to place her in a retreat

FOUR CHARRED CORPSES

In the Ruins of a House Burned by Lightning. Gageton, Mich., July 5.-E. M. Babcock, wife and child, of Fostoria, Michigan, came here on the 4th of July to visit with Mrs. Babcock's parents, Amen Roberts, who live in Grant township, four miles northeast of this place. The family consisted of father, mother and seven children, and they all went down to Cass City to take in the celebration, returning about 1 o'clock this morning. About 3 o'clock this morning Mr. Roberts was awakened by the smell of smoke and found his bed clothing on fire. He aroused his brother and his guest, Mr. George Frost, of Silverwood, Mich., who was also visiting the family. Young Roberts jumped out of the window on the second floor and rushed to his father's room window on the first floor. He finally succeeded in rescuing his father, mother and little sister. His other brother and sister made their escape, but Mr. Babcock, his wife and Mr. Frost perished in the flames; also the seven-year-old son of Mr. Frost e house and furniture were burned. Nothing but charred trunks were found of those who were burned.

It is thought that during the rain and thunder storm that was prevailing early this morning, the lightning struck the house and set it on fire. The inmates returning late, worn out by the day's tramp, probably never aroused and were suffocated long before the flames reached them. This does not apply to Mr. Frost, who, it is supposed, tried to rescue Mr. Babcock and his wife and was overcome by the heat and smoke. Miss Hannah Roberts had her hands and arms terribly burned before she could get out, and Dr. Lanin, the attending physician, thinks she may not recover.

Miss Roberts and Mr. Frost were engaged to be married this fall. The death of Mr. Babcock, wife and child, wiped out of Augusta, is here on his way to New York from Rockbridge Alum Springs. The colonel was found in a crowd of statesmen in the Metropolitan hotel not discussing the seriousness of the financial situation, but was reciting the advantages of Augusta. Mr. Walsh never fails to advertise the fountain city, and is never more eloquent than when praising its points of vantage. He has done a good deal walking and talk ing since his arrival and says, as far as he can judge, he thinks the Sherman act will be repealed unconditionally.

OF HICKORY NUT SIZE.

Destructive Hallstorm in Peunsylvania Crops Nearly Ruined.

Reading, Pa., July 5.—This city was visited by a halistorm this afternoon which for destructiveness eclipsed all previous storms of the kind since 1896. The storm originated about three miles west of Reading and covered a width of four miles. Grain, corn, oats, flower gardens, grapes and other fruits were stripped off like leaves. The vineyards in Mount Penn are completely ruined and the owners do not expect to obtain more than five per cent of a crop.

South of Reading, especially along the Schujikili valley, the destruction to crops was very great. The wheat, rye and oat crops not yet cut have been leveled to the ground and many of the fields were flooded.

the flames spread with great rapidity, and in less than five minutes the boat was a secthing mass of fire. There were a number of per-sons on board, most of whom were asleep, and sons on board, most of whom were asieep, that before all cuoid be aroused, three, two of whom were women, supposed to have been employed as stewardesses, and the other a male lodger, met horrible fates. Their charred remains were found in the ruins when the fire was extinguished. Their names cannot be obtained. The others barely escaped by jumping into the river.

A Boy Crushed Under a Train. Bristol, Tenn., July 5.—(Special.)—Ed Wheeler, aged fifteen, was run over by a South Atlantic and Ohlo train at Hig Stone Gap, Va., last night while asleep on the track. His left leg was cut off near the knee and his right foot badly mangled. He cannot recover.

Louisville, Ky., July 5.-Near Bardswell, Ky., this morning, Rubie and Mary Ray, aged twelve and sixteen respectively, daughters of John S. Ray, were murdered by an unknown man. The two girls went to a thicket a short distace from the house to pick berries. In about half an hour a pet dog came running to the house. Mrs. Ray thought something was wrong and followed the dog back to the thicket where she found the body of Mary. Her throat was cut from ear to ear. The horrified mother ran back to the house, as she saw The horrified nothing of Ruby, and gave the alarm. Her son hurried to the thicket and about fifty feet from where the first body was discovered, found the corpse of his younger sister. Her throat, too, was cut from ear to ear. Both bodies were horribly man gled, plainly showing that the young girls had been outraged before murdered. There is no definite clue to the identity of the brute who committed the crime, but the manner of the work points to one man and the use of a razor indicates a negro. There is great excitement and large posses are in the woods and if the culprit is caught there will be lynching.

TWO KENTUCKY TRAGEDIES.

A Murderer Pursued by a Posse Who Will

Lynch Him.
Inez, Ky., July 5.—Wallace D. Eskins was shot and killed Sunday at Nolan, W. Va., by Andrew Farmer during a drunken row. The assassin was pursued by a posse and was overtaken and surrounded Monday night, but he fired on his pursuers and fatally wounded George D. Eskins and a man named Thompson. In the confusion he made his escape, but the posse continued the pursuit and he is now surrounded by a mob who threaten to lynch him. He will undoubtedly be caught tonight and unless the sheriff consents to give him up blood will flow freely. He is on Wolf creek, in this county. A skirmish took place today and many shots were exchanged, but full details have not yet been received from the scene of the fight. George Kerrick Kills Ross Leonard. Henderson, Ky., July 5.—George Kerrick yesterday shot Ross Leonard, a young farmer of this county. Leonard was drunk and raised a quarrel in Kerrick's store. After going home he returned and renewed the quarrel. Finally he hurled a chair at Kerrick, which missed him and struck Mrs. Kerrick. Kerrick then fired at Leonard with a shotgun, and the charge took effect

THEY WILL BE PUT TO DEATH

As the Governor Is Not Empowered to Com-

Wilburton, I. T., July 5 .- Considerable excitement is apparent here over what action Governor Jones will take in the matter of commuting the death sentence imposed on the seven Choctaws now awaiting execution at this place. The governor has received a message from the authorities at Washington asking if there is any au-thority whereby the chief magistrate of the Choctaws may commute a sentence of death. What reply the governor sent is not known, but the general impression here not known, but the general impression here is that the execution will occur according to present arrangements, as the Choctaw law makes no provision whatever for commutation of sentences. It is generally conceded that if the governor should fully submit to the demands of the general government for a release of the prisoners such action would go far in the direction of allaying the bad blood engendered during the last Choctaw campaign. If the war department is forced to arbitrary methods in order to quell the present trouble not a few leading Choctaws think the result would be disastrous in the end and result in the overthrow entirely of the present government. of the present government.

when the seemingly endless stream of visitors began to pour through the gates of the White City this morning, the last vestige of yesterday's grand celebration had been removed. Nothing remained to indicate that over 300,000 people had congregated here in honor of the national day of American liberty. The sky was clear, the air cool and bracing, and the visitors came in and took in the sights and wonders as they have been doing on ordinary days for the past two months.

Matthew J. Swatek, one of the stockholders in the Wolrd's Fair Captive Balloon Company, filed a bill in the circuit court today asking that a receiver for the company's affairs. The complainant claims to hold twenty-live shares of the stock valued at $50 each. The capital stock of the company is $50,000, divided into 10,000 shares, which, it is claimed, is being dissipated by mismanagement. The capitve balloon has been making ascensions on the grounds since the world's fair opened. A pulley is used to draw it to earth by a rope, after it has attained a height of several hundred feet.

THE COTTON OUTLOOK Is Anything but Encouraging in South Carolina—What the Reports Show.

Columbia, S. C., July 5.—(Special.)—The outlook for the cotton crop in South Carolina is exceedingly discouraging, and there is a poor prospect for over a half crop. Most all the counties report that cotton is small and that there are very few blooms. is small and that there are very few blooms. In many counties it cannot recover from the excessive rains. The bottom leaves are fed and yellow and are dropping off. In Charleston it is thriving and the crop will be the largest in years, and of unsurpassed quality. Generally speaking the cotton is out of the grass, but has been much injured in cleaning. This is a time when rain will count, and without it the condition of things are serious. The Pledmont counties report that cotton is recovering its healthy appearance and growing nicely, and in the others is about two weeks late and impossible to make half a crop. In many counties it has turned red and has fired up considerably.

The Story of His Abdication Was Untrue. The Consul-General at London Denies It-Reichstag Elections

Paris, July 5.-The body of Nuger, the young man who was killed during the fighting between the police and students in the Latin quarter, was sent to the home of his parent in Lyons today. The authorities feared that the rioters would take advantage of the shipment of the body to cause further trouble and considerable se-crecy was observed in transferring the body from the morgue to Lyons railway

At an early hour this morning the coffin containing the remains was placed in the hearse and taken to the station, the coute followed being through unfrequented streets. The early risers who saw the hearse paid very little attention to it, beyond lifting their hats in accordance with the custom of saluting the dead that prevails here. The students and their abettors in rioting didn't know of the transfer, and therefore no riotous demonstration oc

As the day wore on the rioters, hundreds of whom have no connection with the students, gathered in the vicinity of the markets and restarted the disturbances. Several conflicts occurred between the rioters on one side and the police and soldiers on the other. The crowd was composed of the riff-raff of the city, the majority being out of work and men who never work.

The fighting was quite severe and numbers on both sides were injured. The affair has assumed quite a serious aspect and the authorities who at first imagined that it was due entirely to the effervescence of the more mischievous of the students have determined to restore order at any cost. The disorderly element in all parts of the city took advantage of the demonstration of the students to join in to create disorder, and now, as a matter of fact, they, and not the students as a body, are responsible for the rioting.

Today almost the whole of Paris is occupied by troops who are under orders to repress disorder with a strong hand. The government has not as yet carried out its threat to close the labor exchange. It was decided this morning to allow the building to remain open for a little while longer.

Charged by the Police. Several Conflicts Occurred.

Rioting was resumed at 9:30 o'clock tonight. A mob on the Boulevard St. Michael assumed a threatening attitude and the police charged upon the crowd, driving the rioters down the Rue des Ecclens, as far as the Place Maubert. There the mob made a stand, showering stones and every kind of missiles on the police. A hand to hand fight followed and the struggle continued until the police were reinforced by a large force-of republican guards, when the rioters were dispersed.

At 11 o'clock there was a sanguinary encounter of the Rue des Ecoleas. The exact details are wanting, but it is known that the republican guards charged upon the rioters with drawn swords, and that the police opened fire with revolvers upon the Charged by the Police.

neighboring drug stores, where their wounds were dressed. Another mob upset and set fire were dressed. Another mob upset and set fire to a tram car on the Rue Monge. The car was burned to ashes by the time the firemen arrived on the scene. It is believed that petroleum was used to destroy the car. A sergeant brigadier of nolice was found drowned near the Crenelle bridge and is supposed to have been thrown in the water by the mob.

Two hundred persons were arrested tonight for participating in the disturbances. The streets are now deserted.

BRINGING UP THE DEAD. The Work of Reseners at Thorn Hill London, July 5.—The work of rescuing the living miners and of recovering the bodies of the dead is being pushed as rapidly as possible in Ingrams' colliery, Thorn Hill, Yorkshire, the scene of yesterday's disastrous explosion that entombed the day shift of 145 men. Ir. Huff is Preparing to Have the Books Examined.

THE WORK OF THE COMMISSION.

s Constitution's Representative Takes a Look at the Books-Other News of the Central City.

Macon, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—Hon. W. A. Huff has written a letter to President Bob Brown, of the bond commission, acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the Monday in reply to Mr. Huff's request for certain information concerning the funds, bonds, etc., in possession of the commission.

Mr. Huff, in his last letter, asks if he will be allowed to obtain the information of facts of record from the books of the bond commission if he employs a bookkeeper or accountant for the purpose. President Brown has replied that the books were open to the full and free inspection of Mr. Huff or any one he saw fit to represent him, or that any other citizen can inspect and examine the books at any time and have all the time desired. Mr. Huff will now proceed to engage some one for the duty. It is generally thought that Mr. Huff is preparing to enjoin the issuance of Huff is preparing to enjoin the issuance of the sewer bonds.

The Commission's Books.

Today, as a matter of curlosity, I looked wer the books of the bond commission. They are beautifully, neatly, plainly and concisely kept. The whole transactions of the bond commission are revealed in a clear the bond commission are revealed in a clear and perfect manner, from the first day that it went into life, thirteen years ago, up to to the present hour. For the first ten or eleven years the late Colonel John E. Jones was president of the bond commission, and during his administration the books were kept in that systematic manner so characteristic of him. At his death, about two years ago, he was succeeded as president of the commission by Mr. R. H. Brown, pres-ident of the Central Georgia bank. In teeping the books of the commission he has adopted and followed as near as possi-ble the style and system inaugurated and pursued by Colonel Jones. The Commission's Work.

The commission has gradually funded and retired bonds of the city until the entire bonded indebtedness of Macon today is only $545,800. This is certainly a very small bonded indebtedness for a city the size and wealth of Macon. The assessment or valuation of city property last very small bonded. size and wealth of Macon. The assessment or valuation of city property last year was about $15,000,000. Hence, it appears that Macon can issue $500,000 more bonds and remain within the seven per cent law fixed by the constitution, and beyond which a municipality is not allowed to go. The city of Macon is in a splendid financial condition. She has no other debt than the $545,000 of bonds alluded to. The city has prospered greatly during the past few years, and all the conditions are favorable for her continued prosperity and increasing growth. ued prosperity and increasing growth.

How Much Funds?

The question is frequently asked, how much money or other funds have the commission on hand. Here are the figures: $77,000 in Georgia bonds; $20,000 in Macon market bonds; $10,000 in sound and good loans, and $10,000 in cash. To this can be added $50,000 due in 1893 by the city, which amount, under the law, the city is required to pay annually to the bond commission, and which is usually paid in the fall of each year. The total amount of funds, therefore, which the commission has is $167,000. From this amount there must be set aside or deducted for interest on bonds, $8,000 for July, 1893, and $8,000 for October coupons; $8,000 for April, 1894 coupons; and $8,000 for July, 1894 coupons. Thus there must be set aside or provided for $40,000 for coupons, running as late as July, 1894 to the $50,000 day, the city. How Much Funds? 40,000 for coupons, running as late as uly, 1894, for the $50,000 due by the city a 1894 will not be paid until the fall of lucting this $40,000 from $167,000, which the commission has, leaves a balance of $127,000, but this entire amount cannot be put in the $200,000 of new sewer bonds sed to be issued, for of the $127,000 are $20,000 of Macon market bonds, of course, there would be no sense or necessity in the commission selling one class of city bonds just to buy other city bonds. Then deduct the $20,000 and there will remain $107,000 with which the commiswill have to buy s time this amount has been expended in building sewers, the commission will no doubt have enough funds on hand to buy the remaining $93,000 of sewer bonds.

That $50,000.
As already stated above, the law requires As already stated above, the law requires the city of Macon to pay $50,000 annually to the bond commission with which to pay interest on bonds and provide a sinking fund for payment of maturing bonds. The city usually pays this $50,000 as it collects the taxes. As a matter of curiosity it may be stated that of the $50,000 due this year only $5,000 have been paid. The remainder will come between now and January 1, 1894. All the facts and figures relating to the bond commission will be cheerfully, promptly and reliably given by Mr. R. H. Brown, the able and zealous president.

The bond commission has seventeen years of life to run. The County's Indebtedness

In this connection it may be stated that while the finances of the city of Macon are in such excellent and encouraging condition, the finances of Bibb county, are in even better shape. Bibb county with a taxable assessment or valuation of property of $20,assessment or valuation of property of $20,-000,000 according to the returns of last year has a bonded indebtedness of only $10,000. This is all the debt of any kind that she has. These bonds of $10,000 are the jail bonds, $5,000 of which are due January, 1894, and $5,000 January, 1893.

Surely the city of Macon and the county of Bibb are the places for safe and profitable investments.

THE COLTS OF CARROLL.

A Magnificent Show of Georgia-Born Animals at Villa Rica. Villa Rica.

Villa Rica. Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—While Mr. Watson was speaking to the farmers at Douglasville about the cause of their depressed downthrodden condition, the farmers around Villa Rica were gathered together in a shady grove showing the citizens of the town what they could do in the way of raising stock on the red hills of Georgia.

what they could not in the way is large, stock on the red hills of Georgia.

The colt show was a success in every particular.

The first attraction was a street parade, headed by Mr. W. H. Pope's "Black Hawk," followed by his colts. Next came "Stonewall, Jr.," a bright bay with flowing jet black mane and tail, with his colts following; and from the way these two "noble stres" pranced showed that they were proud of their offspring. After covering the principle streets they gathered in a beautiful shady grove. S. C. Candler selected Messrs. F. M. Fields. A. J. Simmons and John W. Taylor to decide as to the best colt for all purposes sired by "Stonewall, Jr." The contest was very close between those owned by J. B. Boatright, J. C. Barton and Mr. J. S. Hamilton, all three months old. The prize was given to J. C. Barton.

Mr. W. H. Pope selected Dr. L. Roberds, A. Ayers and John Boyd as his judges for the colts of "Black Hawk." and for the best colt over one year old Mr. James W. Baskins's black horse colt received the prize. For the best colt, spring season of 1803, Hon. James W. McGairty, of Paulding county, sorrel mare colt, received the prize.

There were about thirty colts in the parade. Mr. J. C. Barton also had a two-year-old mule colt on hand sixteen and a half hands high and weighed 912 pounds, and yet some people say we can't raise horses in this country and they send off to Kentucky for them, thereby draining this section of lots of ready cash that should remain here.

We hope soon to see the start these farmers have made taken up by others and next year on the 4th of Jufy we will have 100 colts parading these streets.

AND THE WORK WILL SOON BEGIN.

The Officers of This Year's Encampment. Many Improvements Have Been Made in the Arrangements.

Griffin, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—Camp North-en is now ready for the reception of the state troops. Captain Louis H. Kenan has been here for and now the camp is in better condition than ever before The grounds have been cleaned off and with the mess halls all white-washed, the effect is indeed beautiful. Surely the authorities selected the proper place for the annual encampment of the state soldiers. The location is fine, being on a gradual sloping hillside. The camp grounds are covered with beautiful shade trees, making the tents as cool as the weather will permit. The mess halls at the lower end of inconvenience will occur from rain running in. Last year this was quite an annoyance to the troops who were quartered in that part of the camp. The band also suffered from the same cause. Several new mess halls have been erected at the upper and of the camp, making the capacity of Camp Northen much larger than last year. These halls are built similarly to small tent, which was both too small and too insecure. The authorities have recognized house near the entrance of the camp, so the festive lawbreaker will be required to serve out his sentence not in a tent, but in a real guardhouse. No effort will be spared to capture violators of camp orders and it goes vithout saying that the boys may expect those In authority to stop all fun and the like and require the strictest obedience to all orders. The encampment will be run on the plan of a regular post and all who enter may at of a regular post and all who enter may at once submit to regular army discipline.

The parade grounds have been greatly improved, making them now among the best in the union. A new road has hear opened up on the lower side of the grounds for the use of spectators in vehicles, which will prove to be much better for both the nublic and the troops. No amount of confusion arose last year from the fact that those who came out to witness the dress parades were compelled to be stationed between the camps and parade grounds. All hall with delight this great improvement.

The water is forced direct from the springs to all parts of the camp by the city water plant.

The officers' headquarters will be at the upper part of the camp. The situation is a good one, as from it a good view can be had of the entire grounds. Some of the officers have already arrived and are now actively looking after the interest of their commands. Commissary Hunter, of the Fifth regiment of Georgia volunteers, has arrived, also S. J. Bell, quartermaster of Troop H., which is the Burke troop. The Savannah boys will arrive Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, together with several other of the commands from south Georgia. By 10 o'clock all troops will be in and at 12 o'clock the cannon will fig and Georgia's military school will be called to order.

and Georgia's military school will be called to order.
Lieutenant Charles B. Satterlee came down today on the Nancy Hanks and is now supervising the finishing details of the camp before the boys come in. By night all will be ready. Lieutenant Satterlee has just come back from the Alabama encampment and he says it by no means compares to Georgia's. He thinks we have just reasons to feel proud of our encampment, though it is far from what it should be. But from the small appropriation we cannot look for much better. If the legislators of the state could see the hard work that will be done at Camp Northen this year they would have no cause to say it year they would have no cause to say was much of a frolic, but, instead, would in crease the appropriation so as to place Georgia's militia in the front ranks of voluntee gia's militia in the front ranks of volunteer soldiers of other states.

The Constitution had an interview with Lieutenant Satterlee, and by his kindness we can give out the officers who will be in charge of Camp Northen during the encampcharge of Camp Northen during the encampment. Hallock, assistant surgeon United States army, instructor in all matters of medical and hospital departments. With him will be four members of the United States army. He will have a field hospital, a field ambulance, litter, etc. The hospitals will be on the plan of the regular army hospitals, and the field ambulance will be such as is used in active warfare.

Second Lieutenant Frank G. Mauldin, Third United States artillery, instructor in small arms practice.

Colonel W. W. Gordon, Fifth regiment Georgia cavalry, will be in command for the first period. He will be post commander. With the Fifth Georgia cavalry will come also the First battallon of Georgia Volunteers, with Lieutenant J. C. Ivey commanding.

Some Peculiar Relies.

Carrollton, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—Dr. R. S. Evans, a leading physician living at White Plains, a small village just over the Georgia line, has some very peculiar relics. Among the most striking of these are the rattlers of about two hundred rattlesnakes, collected from various sources. The largest of these has sixteen rattles and a button. The snake was seven feet four inches loog, and measured four inches across the back. A man by the name of Miller was bitten by this snake while plowing a half mile from home, and notwithstanding the very deliberate manner in which he killed the snake, walked home leading his horse, and sent for Dr. Evans. His life was saved, and he still lives 2 witness to the truth of the above statement, though it was thirty years ago that he was bitten.

A Backwoods Genius. A Backwoods Genius.

Tallulah Falls, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—Tallulah Falls has a backwoods genius in the shape of one George Moore, about twenty years of age. 'George wanted to learn music, and not having the means to purchase a violin, determined to make one, and make it he did, complete in every respect, well proportioned and of delightful tone. The only tool: used in making it were a pocket knife and poll ax. Having made his fiddle, George forthwith learned to play on it, and spends many hours discoursing sweet music to the guests of one of the hotels here.

Bought by the Bondholders.

Savannah, Ga., July 5.—The Darby Short Line railroad, nineteen miles long, from nere to Darlen, Ga., to a near connection with the Savannah, Florica and Western railroad, has been sold under a decree of the court, obtained by the Continental Trust Company, of New York. It was boght by Mr. Leverman, of New York, representing the northern bondholders, at $30,000. The road was bonded for $200,000.

A Picnic at Waynesville

A Picuic at Waynesville.

Canton, N. C., July 5.—(Special.)—The stone cutters from George Vanderbilt's premises, near Asheville, where he is erecting his mansion, held a picuic at fall Haywood White sulphur springs, Waynesville, N. C., which was probably the largest attended picnic ever held in this vicinity.

Many of the business men with their clerks took advantage of the excursion which was run for their benefit and had a day's outing with their families, six carloads packed and jammed going from Asheville, and these were augmented by others from the intermediate towns. It was a very enjoyable affair to all who participated in it.

THE SCOPE OF THE SCHOOL.

And the Distinguished Educators Who Have It in Charge-Features of Athens, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—The Geor-gia State Normal school was again opened today to the teachers of the state. The entire faculty was present with a large attendance of students, and the school opened with most flattering prospects.

State School Commissioner S. D. Bradwell, as chairman of the normal school commisas chairman of the normal school commission, outlined the history of the school, with its hopes and prospects for the future. Chancellor W. E. Boggs, one of the commissioners, assured the school of the hearty co-operation of the faculty of the university. Professor Lawton B. Evans, president of the school, assigned the different departments. Two classes were formed. The new students were piaced in the junior class, and those who attended last year made up the senior class. Six classes were arranged, allowing the students to elect four from the number. The departments and the teachers in each are as follows:

The entire day was given to the selection of departments and the organization of classes, and the recitations proper will not begin until tonorryw. It the school nothing but the latest normal methods will be used, and teachers will be taught not only the schence, but the practice of teaching.

School Statistics.

State School Commissioner Bradwell stated in the afternoon that he would be unable to remain with the school, but would make visits from time to time; for the next few weeks he would be engaged in compiling the school census. He stated for the encouragement of those who were disposed to be glocomy over the school prespects in Georgia that the next census, when printed, would show a decided decrease in illiteracy. One city in Georgia had an illiteracy percent of only 11-12 of 1 per cent, equaling Hoston and many other cultured cities. The highest was 26 per cent. The umber of school children in Georgia, he said, was 65, 600 and the number of teachers 10,000.

Ten months has elapsed since the initial session and during that time the normal school commission, consisting of State School Commissioner Bradwell, Chaucellr W. E. Bggs and President Lawton Evans, have gone steadily forward in the work of preparation for the second session. The old rock college has been thoroughly remodeled and renovated for the convenience and comfort of the normal students. The second and third floors have been nicely fitted up as dormitories—the second floor for the ladies and the third for gentlemen. The entire first-floor has been divided into offices, dining halls, recitation and assembly rooms. All the rooms are large and comfortable, and all the apportionments are designed for the greatest amount of comfort with the best opportunity for study. The commission has been fortunate in securing an estimable Christian lady who will reside in the college and exercise a diligent supervision of the conduct, comfort and health of those in attendance. By this means, too, expenses have been reduced to the lowest possible rate—$3 per week including bathrooms and fare. The second and third floors alone have been made capable of accommodating 125 students or more, and the majority of both teachers and faculty have engaged rooms in the college building.

the majority of both teachers and faculty have engaged rooms in the college building.

The Founding.

The Georgia State Normal school is just entering the second year of its existence, having been founded in the summer of '92. The school owes its inception to a large number of friends in the state to normal training for teachers, who importuned the board of trustees of the University of Georgia to give up to the state the old rock college and the Gilmer fund, amounting to $15,000, that the state might be induced to $55,000, that the state is favoring such an institution that the trustees donated the fund and building asked for, making the state a gift of property valued at $45,000. The proceeds of the Gilmer fund and a subscription from the city of Athens were the only sources of revenue to the school for the first year. An excellent corps were secured, with Mrs. Lawton B. Evans, of Augusta, as president. The experiment proved successful and the feasibility of the plan was established. The teachers of the state and other friends of the institution hoped thus to demonstrate to the people the great need of the work and to secure through the general assembly an appropriation sufficient to make the school permanent. The legislature accepted for the state the $45,000 worth of property donated by the cure through the general assembly an appropriation sufficient to make the school permanent. The legislature accepted for the state the $45.000 worth of property donated by the university, thus signifying their approval of the school's establishment.

The present session opens without an appropriation from the state, but with funds ample to carry it to a successful termination. The city of Athens in this extremity has come forward most generously and contributed $500. The county of Clarke has given $450 as her pro rata part of funds derived from the dispensary. This, with the $1.000 from the Glimer fund, will constitute the entire revenue of the school. When the session is successfully inished the commission hope, to present the matter to the legislature in such a favorable light that they cannot fall to vote the necessary appropriation to make the school permanent. At any rate it is not believed that the legislature will continue in the ridiculous position of establishing a state normal school without voting the necessary funds to sustain it, but that this will be done just so soon as it is known definately what amount will be sufficient.

Notes from Wilkes.

Washington, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—
We are to have a new paper in Washington—The Wilkes News, published by Mr. Fenner Bowett. Mr. Bowett has been teaching school at Eatonton for the past year, and he is an accomplished young man, and his paper will be a benefit to the town and county. He is a firm democrat and his paper will be full of good reading.

The meeting which has been going on here under Rev. Mr. Culpepper closes this morning. This grand man has now a whole town and county of friends, and no one doubts his sincerity. There have been over seventy-five accessions to all the churches. Rev. Culpepper is a consecrated minister of the gospel and is indefatigable in his ministerial labors. He has won the love and admiration of everybody since he has been among us and his sermons were the delight of all who heard them. He will go from here to Bridgeport, Ala., and conduct a tent meeting. We wish him success wherever he may cast his lot.

Partial rains have fallen in the county, but a general rain is now very much needed. Most of the farmers are out of the grass, and the prospects for a good crop are very flattering.

The Irwin Guards are doing some good practice under their noble captain, R. D. Callaway. They belong to the First battalion and will leave for Camp Northen on the 6th of this month. They will certainly do the town and county honor.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan, son-in-law of General B. W. Hood, was granted letters of administration on the estate this morning. He is a good man and will wind the business up in a profitable way to all the legatees.

Rome, Ga., July 5 .- (Special.)-The state bar association convened here this morning, in tenth annual session, with many of Georgia's most eminent lawyers in attendance. The family had just finished supper and were sitting on the front porch. Mrs. Fife went to the back portion of the house for some water.

As she passed through the room that adjoins her chamber a big black negro appeared and rushed for the open window. Mrs. Fife rushed back to her dresser, where her pistol was, and got back to the window in time to get a shot at the fleeing negro. In his attempt to escape the burgiar dropped ait the valuables he had stolen from the Fife residence and was no doubt glad to escape from the presence of so brave a woman.

HEAT AND SUNSHINE

Sufficient to Draw All the Vegetation Out of the Ground.

COTTON AND CORN SO FAR ADVANCED

That Both Crops Are Able to Withstand the Drought-Corn Is in Good Con-dition-Cotton Is Doing Well.

At last there has been plenty of heat and sunshine, but a deficiency of rainfall is beginning to cause fears of drought. As yet, however, the staple crops have not suffered greatly. Grain has been mostly harvested, while cotton and corn are sufficiently advanced to withstand the lack of moisture. Cotton is in the best condition it has attained this year. The crop is late and small for this date, but under the influence of heat and sunshine is taking on forms well in northern districts and blooming in

In the northwest section of the state crops are probably later than in other districts. No rain of consequence fell the past week, but little complaint of drought is made. The corn crop is everywhere reported in good condition and is being rapidly laid by. The final returns of the oat crop are very favorable. Wheat is now being laid by. The final returns of the oat crop are very favorable. Wheat is now being threshed and is turning out fairly good. Labor seems in good supply and the harvest has proved generally a satisfactory one. Cotton remains small, but its condition has greatly improved during the past month. The heavy rain of a fortnight ago brought up a good deal of grass and some fields are grassy at the present time. With the exception of deficient moisture the recent weather has given fine growing conditions and farmers seem hopeful of good returns. The past week in the northern counties of Georgia has been the most favorable one of the season for farm work. The crops have been cleared of grass and have grown rapidly. In many localities no rain fell. Cotton, though yet small, has grown vigorously. It has had plenty of the much needed sunshine. Corn is low, well stalked, and looks healthy. Most of the upland crop is in need of rain. Bottom corn is in good condition and is rapidly improving. The week has been a good one for heading and threshing wheat, which is about all harvested. The oat and rye harvest is about completed. The yields are considerably above the average at most points. A great many peas have been sown where grain has been taken off. Potatoes and garden truck are in fine growing condition. The melon crop is somewhat late. A moderate crop are in fine growing condition. The melon crop is somewhat late. A moderate crop of apples and peaches have been picked. Fruit is falling from the trees, and the crop left looks poorly and is not doing well. There is a fair crop of berries.

All crops in the northeastern portion of the state are in much better condition than they were seven days ago, though the

All crops in the northeastern portion of the state are in much better condition than they were seven days ago, though the vigorous growth of grass has been very troublesome. During the past week the dry and geasonably warm weather has enabled farmers to kill out the greater portion of the grass, and crops, where cleared of grass, are now growing finely, but, where crops are still in the grass, a rapid growth is of course impossible. Cotton has improved as much as could be well expected. Owing to the backward spring the cotton plant is generally smaller than usual at this time of the year. Corn, with a few exceptions, is in the best of condition, nearly all "laid by," and on nearly every plantation large fields of corn may be seen fully up to the height of a man's head. Rye has been harvested in most of the localities, and the yield is fully up to the average. Other grains have also done well in northeast Georgia this year. Some oats have yet to be cut. Vegetables of all kinds are plentiful. The fruit crop is pretty fair except that grapes are rotting badly.

Correspondents in the western counties generally complain of a deficiency of rainfall. An exception is, however, noted throughout the most southernly counties of the section, where some of the heavy showers fell, which washed the soil in many places. Corn is in very fine condition, but is better on uplands than on the bottoms. Planters expect a larger yield this year than for many years past. Some improvement is noticed in cotton but the plant is still small for the season and will probably continue backward to the end of the summer. It is being plowed for the last time. Vegetables have been slight ly damaged by drought but are still in good condition and give promise of a fine yield. Fruit, although scarce in many longer.

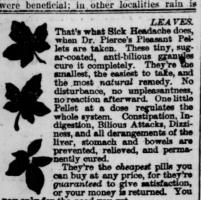

the last time. Vegetables have been slight ly damaged by drought but are still in good condition and give promise of a fine yield. Fruit, although scarce in many localities, is generally maturing nicely. Sweet potatoes are making exceptionally rapid growth and are looking fine.

From all points in central Georgia have reports been received of the vast improvement in the condition of all crops. The warm, sunshiny weather has pushed crops rapidly forward toward maturity, besides giving farmers the much desired opportunity to clear their crops of grass. Where farmers have improved this opportunity and have properly worked their crops the improvement in all farm products has been more apparent than during any other week this year. Cotton, though it had such a backward start, has improved so much that on a few plantations it is nearly up to the size it was at this time in 1892. Corn will be a very fine crop if it continues to grow as at present. It is rapidly nearing maturity, the ears generally now being nearly of the size fit for roasting. Corn is poorest on sandy lands where the recent heavy rains followed by warm weather have caused the "firing" of the crop. The pea crop is large this year and is coming along finely. Potatoes are ready for table use. The shipment of watermelons and canteloupes has begun. Peaches and apples are ripening and appear not quite as good as usual.

Weather conditions in the eastern section have been quite favorable for the Weather conditions in the eastern section have been quite favorable for the planter and his crops, although there has been a deficiency in rainfall and an excess of heat. Grass killing in crops has been the order of the day and the crops are now well cleared. Corn is growing nicely but has been fired in some localities, the damage however, is as yet very slight. Cotton, as is the case in many other sections, is small and backward, but looks fairly well. Farmers apparently anticipate a shortage in the yield of this important stais small and backward, but looks fairly well. Farmers apparently anticipate a shortage in the yield of this important staple. Melons are maturing rapidly but have been scalded somewhat by the hot sun following wet weather. Reports relative to the fruit crop are rather meager but indications are that the crop is poor. Sugar cane and potatoes are growing rapidly and give promise of large yields.

Crops are generally in good condition in southwest Georgia, having continued to grow well during the past week. Showers fell in some localities during the week and were beneficial; in other localities rain is beginning to be needed. The cotton crop which is hardly up to the average is now blooming on most plantations. Corn is very good except on sandy lands where it is "fired." Potatoes, peas, peanuts and sugar cane are all growing nicely. Melons are generally fine and ready for marketing. In the southern counties of Georgia all crops are giving promise of a good yield. Planting peas and potatoes and laying by cotton and rice is the order of the day. Most farmers complain of too much rain which is slightly injuring the principal crops, while a few report injuries to corn and other crops from lack of moisture, the rainfall having come in local showers. The main damage by rain and high winds was done to cotton and corn. Watermelons, canteloupes, peaches and apples are ripening rapidly. On the 2d the high winds in Berrien and Telfair counties blew off considerable fruit but a fair amount still remains. Corn is about all laid by and most of the pea crop has been planted. Some fields are too wet to plow.

Along the coast and in the adjacent counties of the southeast section crops are reported in excellent condition. In fact, in this portion of the state the general state of affairs seems better than last year. About the only complaint made is of damage done to corn by excessive rains three weeks ago, from which the crop has not fully recovered. Recently it has improved in condition and is now in silk, with fair promise of a good yeld. The condition of cotton is in some cases reported superior to the same time last year. All reports agree that the crop is now in good condition and shedding but little. Gardens and vegetable crops have done well. The yield of fruit is proving about an average one. There is a good deal of grass to keep down but the weather has been admirable for the working of crops and, with the possible exception by the rice fields, work is well up. Rice promises well and especially the late crop. Sweet potatoes are in excellent condition. Vines set early in June have done barticularly well.

WEATHER CROP BULLETIN-

Recent Rains Have Improved Wheat-Cotton Needing Rain.

Recent Rains Have Improved Wheat—Cotton Needing Rain.

Washington, July 5.—During the past week the weather was especially favorable to the corn crop. Reports from the cotton region indicate that the cotton crop is improved; conditions in that secton, owing to recent rans.

Mississippi—Conditions generally discouraging; rain needed in most section, cotton small, but in good growing condition.

Louisiana—Rain would be very beneficial to rice and corn; cane in good condition and very promising; cotton improved; crevasse water receding quite rapidly; the northeast section will plant peas and corn; water from Rescue crevasse covers an immense tract and great destitution prevails in the North river section.

Texas—The weather has been favorable for cotton over the eastern portion of the state where it has enabled the farmers to clean out their fields; over the western part of the state cotton is needing rain; early corn is good, but late corn is needing rain; early corn is good, but late corn is needing rain; early corn of the state.

Arkansas—Cotton growing fast; squares forming and blooming, but most of the crop is grassy; corn much improved, and large acreage being planted on late overflowed lands; hay injured and wheat and oats damaged in shock by frequent showers.

Tennessee—Wheat harvest about completed and threshing in progress; yield good; oats and hay excellent; corn growing nicely and being laid by; peaches plentiful; cotton small, but doing well; tobacco growing well.

Kentucky—Conditions generally favorable; wheat harvest complete, crop average, corn doing finely; early tobacco flooks well, but late tobacco needs rain.

In times past women have given their money and energy to the building of monuments to perpetuate the memory of men. and the success attending their efforts has sometimes been memorated in enduring marble the virtues of a woman who stands a model of excellence, not only to every Georgian, but to every patriotic citizen in this broad American union. The grave of Mary, the mother of Washington, at Fredericksburg, Va., lies neglected and desolate. A monument begun there sixty years ago by a wealthy citizen of that town, but never completed, stands weather-worn and defaced. After years of neglect and decay it is proposed by American women "to rescue from total oblivion the name of a woman whose memory should be hallowed in every home, and pay a national tribute to her noble motherhood by erecting, a monument to her honor." It is a work in which we, the mothers and daughters of Georgia, should have a part. An association with Mrs. Amelia C. Waite, the wife of the late chief lustice, at its head, has been organized for the purpose of collecting funds for this monument. Their design is to erect a grantie obeisk fifty feet high, forty feet of which will be a mono-lith. it is proposed by American women "to rescue design is to erect a granite obesisk fifty feet high, forty feet of which will be a monolith.

Nor do the ladies intend to stop here. They expect to raise enough to adora the grounds surrounding the monument and laciose them, and to provide an endowment fund for the preservation of the memorial. The first exhibit placed in the woman's building at Chicago was the model of the proposed monument to be erected to the memory of Mary, the mother of Washington. This of Itself ought to be encouragement for us to work for the consummation of the plan. Let then Georgia women "be heart moved as by the voice of trumpet" to contribute their quota to this noble undertaking. Let every one of our sex whatever her condition come with her contribution. In organizing this work in Georgia, every lady is asked to send one dollar as her share in the plan. It is also urged that in every town and city in the state some ladies will volunteer to give an entertainment, the proceeds of which will go to the monument fund. Here is an opportunity for noble, patriotic labor. For every dollar sent a badge of membership to the Mary Washington Association will be returned to the donor and a receipt for the money. Funds can be sent directly to me or to the savings bank. Athens. Ga., and they will be forwarded to the proper authorities. Contributions from gentlemen interested in the movement will be most gratefully acknowledged.

The "Mikado" and the Electric Novelty Are Given Before a Big House.

The "Mikado" will never grow old in Atlanta. The opera has been sung here times innumerable, and its popularity today is as great as it was years ago, and still it lives, a happy, tuneful existence. At the experienced and capable hands of the McCaul Opera Company its success here for the past week has been phenomenal. Every night this week the theater has been packed and still the people come. The advance sale of seats for the last performance is already a large one, and by tonight the reserves will no doubt be in great demand. It is the best production ever seen outside of New York. The principals are all singers and know exactly what to do to give good effect. Mr. Mathews, Miss Pierce, Mr. Pearson, Miss Dressler and Miss McIntyre are all prime favorites. So is Mr. Gurville, who leaves the company on Saturday for Europe. Mr. Gurville will go direct to London and will be accompanied by his charming wife. Mr. and Mrs. Gurville will remain in England until the beginning of their fall engagement in this country, when Given Before a Big House. their fall engagement in this country, when they will return.

Mlle. Reyval. Mile. Reyval.

As dapper and as charming as could be, pretty and petite Mile, Nada Reyval appeared last night in an entirely new costume and dance. The house gave her repeated calls and the dashing little electrifier every time responded most graciously. Her new costume is a lovely creation, while the dance and songs catch the audience as being unusually novel. The matinee yesterday was well attended.

The same bill will be repeated this evening. Cars leave the theater every night after the show in all directions.

As to Railroad Competition.

The Savannah Press, in a review of Justice Jackson's decision concerning the 42,000 shares held by the Terminal com pany in the Central railroad, concludes that the decree annihilates that clause of the constitution directed against the defeat of railroad competition. This is the famous constitutional clause which has figured so frequently in the Georgia legislature, and about which so much has been said. The decision of Justice Jackson tallies entirely with the argument advanced by the opponents of the celebrated Olive and Berner bills, the time spent in the discussion of which cost the state several thousand dollars per annum for several onsecutive years. The Press gives an unwarranted scope o the decision. It does not invalidate the state constitution, but simply construes the celebrated railroad competiion clause.

If we understand the judge's decision correctly, one railroad, which is clearly and unmistakably a competing line with another, cannot buy out its rival for the ourpose of destroying competition.

In the case of the lease of the Central ailroad system to the Georgia Pacific, he court held that the Central could not be considered a competitor of the Georgia Pacific to which the Central system was leased. The following extract from his decision bearing on this point will be read with interest:

The Terminal had a right to acquire that stock, had a right to own it, and to vote it, but it is said it might lead, or may lead, out it is said it might lead, or may lead, or was intended to lead, to a condition that would prevent competition. How so? Is there any competition in point of fact between the Central Railroad and Banking Company and the Georgia Pacific, leading out to the northwest from Atlanta—that is, the lessee? What competition, in the eye of the law?

I can suggest to you gentlemen, a case that I can suggest to you, gentlemen, a case that ould have fallen within the constitution of Georgia, perhaps. If the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad Company and the Georgia railroad, running a parallel line from Atlanta to the coast, parallel to the Central Railroad Company, had, as a corporation—had, as a corporation, I emphasize that—had, as a corporation, undertaken to buy up the stock of the Central Railroad Company, you would then have had a case company. ing within the purview and principle of the constitution of Georgia. But they say beise a stockholder in the two corporations cause a stockholder in the two corporations had stock in two corporations that that stockholder cannot vote in both corporations. It is an anomaly beyond expression, to my mind. But it does not come within any inhibition of the constitution of Georgia. When these contracts are purchased, personal properties are made beyond the jurisdiction of Georgia. To say that is illegal by Georgia law cannot be sustained. Georgia law cannot deal with these stocks and inhibit their purchase and their sale.

It will thus be seen that Justice Jackson only construes, and does not annihilate, the anti-consolidation clause of the constitution. He illustrates his opinion of that clause by showing that it was intended to prevent the defeat of such competition as grows out of parallel lines, like the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia and the Central, for instance, the lease of either one of which corporations to the other-as a corporation-he declares would be in conflict with the Georgia constitution. The state constitution, in the opinion of the court, does not and cannot, prevent individuals from owning the control of the stock of both of these, or any other two corporations, whether parallel and competing or not. Of course, the protection against extortion where one corporation falls into the hands of those who control another, and the purchase of which is made for the purpose of defeating competition, is easily to be found in the authority of the state to regulate rates and control the management of railroads within its limits in a manner that will conform such management to the just and reasonable demands of public policy and at the same time allow adequate returns for the investments back of the railroads so regulated. In other words, the state has no power to say who shall or shall not own a rail road, unless in the case of consolidating parallel lines, but it has the power to say what shall, or shall not, be done as to their regulation, whoever may be their owners.

The Party-Not the Place.

A paragraph in one of our weekly exchanges reads:

Unless south Georgia has more recognition in the next state election, democrats in that section will kick out of the traces. This is putting it plainly, but there is really nothing in such a threat. South Georgia has been talking about recognition for quite a while, and we trust that she will obtain all that she is entitled to, but we do not believe that the democrats in that favored section will sulk and stand back from the battle because they fear there will not be an equal division of the spoils. They have never been found wanting when the fight was on, and their past prestige speaks for the

As a matter of fact, there is an evident desire on the part of a few to inject sectional feelings into the next state campaign. North Georgia has been receiving sly thrusts and open blows from the hands of these few, who are the ones that have threatened to desert the ranks unless they can carry the banners or act as drum majors to the political band. This is all wrong. If any section of the state other than north Georgia can "capture the spoils" let it sail in and do so; each section-since "sections" there must be-is pulling for itself, in a cer tain sense, but still, we hope, with aeye single to the welfare of the whole; the action of the democratic party, as it speaks for the people in the selection of state leaders is the guide for all good democrats; it wipes out-or should do

South Georgia and west Georgia are pressing their claims for recognition and we repeat that they should nave their just dues, but we do not believe they would "kick out of the traces" if they should not capture the prizes they are after. Sectionalism has no business in a state campaign, and it will not exert any great influence in the politics of state.

The motto of the democrats of Georgia should be: "The party-and not the Work for the Extra Session.

No southern daily has sounder and more thoughtful democratic editorials than those which appear in the columns of The Wilmington Messenger.

Our contemporary welcomes the Aurust session of congress, and while it concedes the importance of carrying out the pledge of our platform in regard to financial reform, it does not lose sight of the tariff:

The democratic party must take hold in 'dead earnest" of the huge tariff tax ques-ion. The democrat who shirks here should the the death of a political dodger and trick-ter. No man may ever hereafter be trusted who fails his party in this crisis and in the very teeth of solemn pledges and reiterated assertion that the vile unequal, unjust, war-reasonable, unconstitutional McKinley repub-lican tariff tax shall come down, and with a rengeance.

The pledge of the democracy to the country tariff tax for revenue othing else. This solemn promise cannot be ignored, and a democratic congress can either hedge nor dodge. Even a republican supreme court has decided that taxes laid for any other purpose than for revenue must be considered "robbery." That is the word used and it will stick.

The pension business should be overhauled without delay, and the federal election laws also need attention.

There is plenty of work waiting for congress. Our lawmakers will not have to hunt about for subjects to engage their attention. If they have any doubts, and wonder "where they are at," all they have to do is to refer to the Chicago platform.

Secretary Carlisle's Views. We have already expressed in very positive terms our belief that Secretary Carlisle did not seek the advice of the Hon. John B. Henderson, a republican ex-senator from Missouri, and a monometallist of the most extreme type. Mr. Henderson's recent letter in favor of the gold standard was doubtless his own volintary offspring, neither solicited nor endorsed by the administration. Mr. Carlisle's record is so well known that no intelligent democrat will for a moment suppose that he is in sympathy with the republican monometallists. For twenty years he has ably and fearlessly advocated bimetallism. He voted for the original Bland bill providing for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. In February, 1878, he delivered a strong speech in the house on the silver ques tion in which he said:

I know that the world's stock of precious metals is none too large, and I see no reason to apprehend that it will ever become so. Mankind will be fortunate, indeed, if the annual production of gold and silver coli ep pace with the annual increase of TECT, THE CONSPIRACY WHICH SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN FORMED HERE AND IN EUROPE TO DESTROY BY LEGISLGA-TION AND OTHERWISE FROM THREE-MOST GIGANTIC CRIME OF THIS OTHER AGE. The consummation of such a scheme would ultimately entail more misery pestilence and famine that ever occurred in the history of the world. The absolute and nstantaneous destruction of half the entire ovable property of the world, including uses, ships, railroads and all other appliances for carrying on commerce, while would be felt more sensibly at the mome would not produce anything like the pro-onged distress and disorganization of society hat must inevitably result from the perma-nent annihilation of one-half of the metallic

Having thus placed himself on record, Mr. Carlisle pursued a consistent course and showed that he had the courage of als convictions. When he was a candtdate for Senator Beck's vacant seat he said that his views were identically those of that great statesman. With this understanding he was elected to succeed one of the most pronounced of American bimetallists.

It is utterly out of the question, even or Mr Carlisle's enemies, to suppose that a cabinet position has changed his financial views. The congressman who declared that the demonetization of silver would "ultimately entail more misery on the human race than all the wars, pestilence and famine that ever occurred in the history of the world" is not likely now, as the democratic secretary of the treasury, standing on a free silver coinage platform, to go into the camp of the enemy and accept the policy laid down by a republican champion of the gold standard.

The great Kentuckian in 1878 denounced the conspiracy of the mononetallists as a gigantic crime. His indignation was stirred because he saw that the object of the scheme was to cause an enormous shrinkage of values by demonetizing half of the metallic money of the world. Since that time the practical workings of monometallism must have intensified Mr. Carlisle's indignation, and when he became secretary of the treasury, on a platform which unequivocally demands the free coinage of gold and silver, without discriminating against either metal, it is simply monstrous to suppose that he would blot out his record and his pledges for the past twenty years and loom up as the active ally of the gold sharks of Wall street. If there has been such a transformation it is without a parallel in our history, when we consider the magnitude of the interests involved.

But all this talk about the secretary's endorsement of Mr. Henderson's letter, directly or indirectly, is a weak invention of the enemy. In some mysterious way this document has gone out to the public with the statement that it was furnished at Mr. Carlisle's request and the republican organs are in high giee over the spectacle of a democratic secretary of the treasury seeking counsel from the enemy. Their exultation will be short-lived. They will find that Mr. Carlisle stands today where he stood in 1878. He has not retracted his ringing crime of the gold sharks, and the injury flicted upon trade and industry by the netization of silver has made all the more determined to restore the double standard demanded by the plat form which is the law of the present administration.

We do not believe that this defense of Mr. Carlisle is necessary, but it will interest our readers to have this brief summary of his record, and they will agree with us that this able and consist ent advocate of the bimetallic standard of our fathers is the right man in the right place. Mr. Henderson and other republican plutocrats may write as many letters as they please. They will get no endorsement from the secretary If his position is questioned he will sim ply point to his record for twenty years, his great speech for free silver in 1878, his votes in congress, and the democratic platform on which he stands.

From The Americus Times-Recorder Now that the purpose of the administration to put the country upon a gold basis is clearly shown, the questions naturally arise, why not laccept monometallism, and why can't we get without sliver altogether? the large production by this country have reduced it almost to a base metal, why not adopt the goldbug doctrine and come down to credit of the bills and keeps them circulating; and the day that a quantity of coin becomes so reduced that redemption is stopped, or even brought into question, that very day coin goes to a premium, or rather paper goes below par, and a panic is imminent.

With gold alone as a basis for redemption, the quantity is so small that to avoid the danger of suspension of specie payment the volume of currency must be correspondingly reduced and this will likewise create a manic. reduced, and this will likewise create a panic reason of undue contraction. It will take all the gold and silver both that the government can possibly coin to keep up a sufficient supply of specie to form a broad enough basis to maintain at par the necessary volume of paper money to transact the business of the country; and to withdraw silver from our coin reserve means either that the remaining gold must go to a premium, or the volume of currency based on coin be reduced correspondingly. Either one means congestion, arringency, hard times and panic; and the only safety of the country lies in increas-ing the specie reserve by coining every avail-able ounce of gold and silver into dollars of equal value and increasing the volume of the currency to correspond. The more gold and silver coin there is, the more paper money can be safely issued, the easier money will become, and the lower the rate of interest will fall, and the more prosperous business will grow. The reverse of this method-the one w have had ever since the Sherman law was enacted in 1890-brings on hard times and failures-in short, just the present condition of affairs. The quantity of coin has been steadily decreasing, while the paper has been increased to meet the necessities of business, until now the gap is beginning to get so wide as to threaten to put gold to a premium, especially with silver demonetized. The remedy is the colnage of both gold and silver on a parity with each other and in unlimited quantities. A Hercic Woman.

But in the wreck Mr. Haley took care of his cards, and he is now enjoying fees which should go into the pocket of some deserving democrat.

An interesting story, connected with the statement that ex-Marshal Buck played successfully for Haley's appointment to a demorratic position, is told. United States com-missioners are nominated by the district at-torney, and confirmed by the district judge presiding. It seems that the late L. J. Alred, an honored republican of north Georg a, was distasteful to the then district attorner, Darnell. He resolved upon the removal of Aired as commissioner by the appointment of Haley. The commission was actually issued to the latter when the friends of Alred got a tip as to what was going on. They made it so hot for Darnell that the latter left the old man alone, and Baley kept the useless com-mission in his pocket. An effort is now be-ing made to prove that Haley was already in office, and as he could perform all the business office, and as he could perform all the business heretofore in the hands of Mr. Haight, this does not remove the fact that the democratic district attorney, James, has it in his power to remove the commissioners at will, and that his acts will be fully approved by the worthy democratic district judge.

seen at the New England news stand. It is a bon constrictor, and came from South America with a cargo of bananas. The snake is three feet long and about four inches in greatest circumference. On its long journey it was kept comatose in a refrigerator, but hardly had it been unloaded when Minnesota's sun began to thaw it out. A fruit vender of this city was marching out of the store with the bunch of bananas hung over his shoulder, when a by-stander called out to him. The man turned about and saw the snake on a level with his eyes, looking at him as though wondering what next was to be expected. The bananas shout and saw the same as though wondering eyes, looking at him as though wondering what next was to be expected. The bananas were dropped and the vender's optics fairly bulged out of his head. He might possibly have beard of finding tarantulas in a bunch of bananas, but a boa constrictor was too much. The snake was fed yesterday for the first time after his five weeks fast. A mouse was dropped into his bor. He wound himself about his victim and squeezed the life out of it and then swallowed it whole.

A BRILLIANT DAY.

The Chantauqua Is Growing in Popularity and Is Giving Rare Pleasure.

TWO FINE LECTURES AND DECCA

The Songstress, Charms Her Audience Professor Bolton's Trip to Switzer-land Was Delightful.

The voice of the lemonade vender and the odor of sawdust permeated the chautauerary air. The hawkers of fans and cush-ions had a brisk trade for it was a hot day. and the seats were narrow and hard. Or other hand the man with the basso voice and the hot coffee stand did not seem to be making rent.

Slowly, the chautauqua seems to be winning its way as well as can be told in such short time. So far the exercises have een brilliant and the standard will be maintained all through to the end whether t is a winning or a losing game. The finest latform orators in the country are on the programme and the instructions to be gainis like a course in college. For brushing up, the chautauqua beats anything that can be turned to by the busy man. His ibrary cannot touch it. The lecturers have so much condensed in their addresses. Pro fessor Bolton in two hours gives the audience the benefit of a summer trip to Europe. His stereopticon views are magnifiand impress themselves on the mind as well as on the eye.

Professor C. C. Case, of Cleveland, O., is superintendent and is running things out there with the assistance of the board of local directors. Governor Northen is one of the most interested men in the assembly's success. He remarked yesterday afternoon thing calculated to advance the scholarship and culture of his state, and he has found nothing that he can recommend so highly as this chautauqua.

The Governor's Interest. The governor is heart and soul in this assembly. He does not stay at the statehouse longer than is necessary to go through the mail and give general directions as to how the state should be run for the day. Then he makes a bee line for the tent on Jackson street. He introduces the speakers, and yesterday they had him presenting the singer and making all sorts of announce. ments, but he enjoys it all and does

Yesterday's events were lectures by Colonel Copeland and Professor Bolton, and a talk by Dr. W.
M. Itaskervill, of Nashville, and singing by Madame Marie Decca. Professor singing by Madame Marie Decca. Professor Botton took his hearers on a tour over Switzerland. Colonel Copeland delivered his lecture on "Secing the Elephant," and today will repeat his lecture on "The Future of the Republic." This is by special request. Miss Decca delighted the audience. She will be a feature every day.

When the governor announced that Colonel Conduct wall repeat his between onel Copeland would repeat his lecture on the republic there was a round of applause. Many present had not heard it on the day before, but having heard a great deal about the cloquence of it, were eager to hear it.

The enthusiasm is spreading and the outlook is encouraging for a successful season.

This means much to Atlanta. If this one pays out, the city will have a chautauqua regularly hereafter.

Mr. Leon H. Vincent did not appear in Mr. Leon H. Vincent did not appear in the morning, and it seems that he will not be able to come. Dr. Baskervill talked on English language. It was a scholarly address and set the hearers to thinking. He gave them new information. He said for instance, that when he wanted to perfect himself in the study of English, he went to Germany. There, men become students because there is nothing else for them to do. Germany produces the leading thinkers of the world. Dr. Baskervill is down on the programme for nearly every day from the programme for nearly every day from now until the assembly winds up. The Bible normal class met and there was Colonel Copeland had an odd title for his lecture, but it was just the sort of a lecture that would be guessed from the name. He Saxe's verses on the six blind repeated Saxe's verses on the six blind men who went to see the elephant. One thought that it was a big wall. Another was of the opinion that it was like a tree. A third who felt its ears concluded that it was a huge fan, while a fourth, who got hold of the trunk decided that it was a snake. Another judged from the tusk that it must be a spear, and the sixth, who grasped the tail just knew that it was a rope. The moral of the lecture was that people are apt to see life as the blind men saw the elephant—only a fragment.

The grandest thing in the world is a man, said the sneaker. He added that the most glorious thing is a scoman. He is a hearty believer in the dignity of mankind. He is not an agnostic. He takes no stock in the cheap materialistic philosophy. He does not accept the theory that man was originally an ultimate molecule, an atom, a protoplasm. a felly fish and a monkey. That theory of the origin of the human race does not sait him, but he holds that man was created by God in the divine image. First God made the birds, the fishes and the animal creatures and man was the last work to come from his hand.

Colonel, Copeland had a good deal of fun with the dude and the dudine, whom he caricatured to the amusement of the listeners. The grandest thing in the world is a man,

Life Is Not a Vale of Tears.

Then he touched up the long faced, lugu-brious folks who declare that man is a weary pilgrim traveling through a vale of brious folks who declare that man is a weary pilgrim traveling through a vale of tears. It is no such thing said the lecturer and he is not a poor worm either. As a mere animal he is the grandest specimen that walks the earth. A sage once inquired what it is that distinguishes man from all other creatures. One replied that man was the only animal that laughs, but it was pointed out that the wag of a dog's tail is his laugh. Then some suggested that man is the only animal that does not wag his ears. It was replied that the ears of the philosopher who gave that response must be large enough to wag. Go to, wise men, replied the sage, man is the only animal that thinks. There is the great difference between man and all other creatures. Man is the only animal that changes his condition and improves. The beaver constructs his dam just as he always did. The musk-rat does not wall his abode any differently today from the way he did centuries ago. And the birds hang their nests in the trees in this year of grace just as they did in the garden of paradise. Man though has changed his abode. In the primitive days he had a hut. Now he builds himself grand palaces. In the early age he stretched a hide across a hoop and beat it with a bladder filled with peas and thought it music. Now he listens to the grand organ and the piano. It is thought that has spanned the ages from the tom-tom to the organ. Man is sovereign of the universe because he thinks. If a mountain intervenes in his course, he bores a hole though it and goes on. Nothing obstructs his advancement. He sets a ladder up against the stars and measures them and weighs them.

Would Like to Be a Lecomotive.

bition amused the audience no little. The telephone and the telegraph and the giant steamship are thought.

Nine men out of ten do not see but a side of life. They may look above for infinity, but there is as much of it below as overhead. The speaker declared that there is more thought to him embodied in a tiny engine which stands on a dime and is perfect in all its parts than in one of the giant pyramids. He told of seeing beautiful specimens of mosaic work in Italy. One piece or rather two pieces, caff buttons, contained the likenesses of Napoleon II, and his empress and the work of making these two pieces had taken a man seven years. They contained 30,000 pieces and he supposed that was the finest specimen of its kind in the world, but was surprised when something more astenishing was shown to him. On an American gold dollar he saw engraved the Lord's prayer, the ten commandments and the aposties creed on one side and on the other the Declaration of Independence. Here on the two sides of this coin were the grandest teachings given to man. By the way, this coin is in the Italian exhibit at the world's fair. The point of, this reference to the coin was that all over the world the gold coin is in the Italian exhibit at the world's fair. The point of, this reference to the coin was that all over the world the gold dollar contains all that most men are looking for and striving after. All they see adhere is the dollar and that is all they study adhere is the dollar and that is all they study about. They are not broad and they do not get the good or the practical enjoyment out of life that there is in it. The ditcher with his happy home singing at his work is more contented than the millionaire with the sour wife, the dissipated son and the giddy daughter.

The Dollar Chasers. The Dollar Chasers.

The money getter sees life as the blind man saw the elephant. There are a great many people, too, like the old maid seventy years of age who was found crying one day. She said in explanational control of the said in explanations of the said in the said in explanations. tion that she was just thinking that if she should get married and a baby should be born and it should crawl in the stove some day and get burned while she was baking how sad it would be.

a fragment of life as the blind man saw the elephant.

Colonel Copeland told of going back to his old home in the country once to lecture and after the lecture joining a party of his old schoolmates and revisiting the old red schoolhouse. The life of the man who did not go to an old red schoolhouse when he was a hoy is a failure said the lecture. did not go to an old red schoolhouse when he was a boy is a failure, said the lecturer. He drew an eloquent picture and at the same time a droll one of the school and gave it a pathetic turn when he told of the careers of the various schoolmates.

The plea of his address was for a broader, larger view of life. Happiness is in the soul and not in the palace or the cottage. The soul must have a chance. The spiritual nature should be cultivated along with the practical side to attain the greatest happiness.

Munc. Decca Sings.

At the close of Colonel Copeland's At the close of Colonel Copeland's lecture, which was heartily enjoyed by all present and repeatedly applauded, Mme. Decca sang two numbers, "Swiss Echo Song" and "What Can They Do?" Eckert's echo song written for Jenny Lind, was rendered strikingly. The notes were as clear as a flute and the echoes came so softly and flawlessly that the audience could scarcely wait until she had finished to applaud. Some diminuendo effects and offects of the contract of the contrac she had finished to applaud. Some diminuendo effects and effects of echo, of mezzo voce and of extremely high notes were superb. Her voice is phenomenal and, as before stated in The Constitution by the state of th nal and, as before stated in The Constitution, her phrasing is absolutely correct. The freedom of her tones in the higher register from vibration is truly gratifying to the listener and should be an inspiration to young singers. Decca has been compared with Gerster and she does recall that artist who stayed so briefly on the stage.

The balad "What Can They Do?" was exquisite. The artist gave it with some little mannerisms which were very dainty. She was called back and sang "Suwanee River" as an encore.

The management of the chatauqua have in this singer a star of great brilliance and if they would endeavor to impress it more they could possibly fill some of the empty benches. No announcement is made in advance of what she will sing.

A Large Crowd at Night

The hearts of the managers of the assembly were glad when the tent filled up last night. Professor Bolton was to lecture on Switzerland. His beautiful views shown the night before had given rare pleasure and his trip to the pictureque little country was enjoyed by a great many months.

the country was enjoyed by a great many people.

He started in on the southern side.

Switzerland, though small in area and population, like Scotland and Palestine, has scarred her achievements deeply on the pages of history," said the lecturer. "Switzerland for a century has triumphantly confronted the nations of Europe with a model republic." He took the tourists first to Geneva, giving them views of gardens and buildings. Geneva, of which Voltaire said was a canton so small a model republic." He took the tourists first to Geneva, giving them views of gardens and buildings. Geneva, of which Voltaire said was a canton so small that if he shook his wig, it powdered the whole of the little government. Then the tourists went up Lake Geneva, stopping at Coppet, the home of the brilliant Mme. de Stael. There were beautiful views of the lake, then a ride on the diligence to Mont St. Blanc, several fine pletures going up the mountain, views of the monks, the St. Bernard dogs and the monastery, a fine view of the Alps. Thence the party visited the upper part of Lake Geneva, stopping at the town of Vevey and the castle of Chaillon. The sources of several glaciers were visited and then Berne was seen with its famous cock and bear pit. Interlaken, the headquarters of Americans, was visited, of course, then Lucerne, Mt. Rigey, from the summit of which was obtained a magnificent view of the Alps. Mt. St. Godard tunnel, eight and a half miles long, was seen and then the tourist went back to Altorf and listened to the story of William Tell with a more realistic sense of the country than ever entertained before. A glimpse was taken of the Tell chapel brilliant with frescoes.

It was a thorough tour of the little republic and the delighted audience gave much applause.

Professor Bolton's lectures save his patrons the cost of a trip over the ocean.

There will be a chorus rehearsal this morning at 10 o'clock, probably a talk by Dr. Bsakervill, and in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Colonel Copeland will repeat his lecture of "The Future of the Republic," which so many requested to have repeated that the management secured him to remain over and give it.

Mme. Decca will sing about 5 o'clock. Tonight at 7:30 the chorus wll give a rehearsal and will be followed by another charming lecture by Professor Bolton. This will be on London and will be full of instruction and entertainment.

A telegram was received yesterday from Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, saying that he will be here for a lecture Saturday night and "I would rather be a locomotive than anything in the world except a woman," said Colonel Copeland. An engine is thought, said he. Man thought it. terest in the case and the whereabouts of the young man, as well as his attack upon the family mansion in which the young girl is at present incarcerated, have been matters of no little speculation. Copeland it will be remembered is young man who came to the city a short while ago with Mr. Jack Futrell from Boston, Mass., where they had been employed on the same daily newspaper. As fate would have it, Copeland fell in love with Futrell's sister, a beautiful young girl, though four years the senior of the ashing young Bostonian.

His frequent visits to the house soon the vigilant eye of the girl's father soon detected that his love was not in vain. This was anything but pleasing to the fond parent, who failed to catch any of that infection which came from his daughter's devotion. There were many reasons which accounted for the evil glances which he cast upon the young man and for the earnest persuasion with which he counseled his daughter to abandon her fascination.

Mr. Futrell, who has always lived in the south and who is proud of the cavalier blood that flows in his veins, had cherished the hope that his daughter would form an alliance with a youth of her own section. Copeland was a New Englander by birth and hailed directly from Boston, the county seat of the Puritan. This, however, was a very light consideration and others of a more the vigilant eye of the girl's father soon

It was claimed by Mr. Futrell, and the argument was urged on his daughter, that Copeland was not a proper young man. He was stylish in his appearance, but while he had several of those superficial charms which strike the eye, he had none of that inherent merit that wins the soul. He had no visible employment and the inherent merit that wins the soul. He had no visible employment and the money he was spending, by a simple process of logic, could not always hold out. The young lady, however, "saw through a glass darkly," or rather her eyes were smitten with the wand of Cupid in such a manner that she could see nothing except the blandishmeuts of her fair Adonis. She differed from her father both in the premises which he took and the conclusions ises which he took and the conclusions which he drew from them. She insisted that her lover was in every way the man her heart painted him and if she could do no better she could at least "wait until the

Mr. Futrell, however, was on the alert. In the common parlance of the day he amelt a mouse and immediately he arranged his trap. He called at the station house and apprised the officers of the little conspiracy on foot. The result was that three or four of the blue coats were detailed to watch the spot and these secreted themselves in the bushes and among the shadows that floated about the dwelling.

When the enemy arrived on the scena the officers were ready for them and instead of nabbing the girl they were nabbed themselves. It was a funny turn to the little game, but the parties plaintiff failed to enjoy the unexpected mishap. They were taken to the station house, where the principal offender was incarcerated, while the others were dismissed with a copy of the charges against them, which was that of loitering around the property of Mr. Futrell.

The story is incomplete as at stands, but the foundation is laid for a thrilling romance. If the fellow had captured his girl or fallen a victim to the shotgun the story would have ended well, whether it ended in the scent of the orange blossom or the shade of the cypress tree. As it stands the story is a little irritating and the question is pertinent in the name of romance as well as blind justice: Where is the fellow Copeland?

> THE NEW YORK MARKET. on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, July 5.—Lower cables from London and some selling by arbitrage houses led to a weak opening in the ocal stock arket today. In the first trailing aprices, receded 1-4 to 1 1-4 per cent right, through the list. A sharp advance of 1 per cent in sterling exchange at the opening of business also operated against the stock market. Rumors affecting the credit of C. P. Huntington wore again put affoat, and it was repeated from London that the Central Pacific Company would not pay its August dividend. Mr. Huntington denied toto rumors alleging his hability to meet his contracts and asserted that the Central Pacific would pay its August dividend. Subsequently when it was found that brokers had no difficulty in renewing their loans, and that foreign houses were liberal lenders of money at comparatively easy rates, a more bullish feeling set in and under the leadership of General Electric are advance of 3-4c was recorded. Soon after, however, the bears renewed their attacks and Burlington and Quincy, St. Paul, Rock Island, American Sugar, Big Four and others were sold by the professional elements. Rumors were circulated that large failures were imminent in London. Northwest was affected by reports of closing out of loans and of the hutting down of from mines in the territory traversed by the company. The market closed about steady. The sales were 98,700 shares. Railway bonds were irregular. Richmond Terminal tryst receipts sixes fell 2 to 55@56. Government bonds.

State bonds dull.

Money on call was easier, ranging from 3 to 15 per cent; last loans 3, closed offered at 3; prime mercantile paper 678 per cent.

Sterling exchange weak with actual business in bankers' bills 482714 for sixty days and 484 3-46485 1-4 for demand.

Silver market quiet, but strong; certificates sold at 75718, closing at 757676. The total sales of stocks today were 98,700 shares.

The Post's Comments,

New York, July 5—The Evening Post says:
"The Bank of England's gold supply is still closed to us and the bank's policy is further indicated by its purchase on yesterday's London open market of 12,000 pounds of gold. The rise in sterling nevertheless is a favorable feature in so far as if reflects the international money markets' return to normal conditions. How far the recent extreme low rates for sterling were due to importers' inability to raise money for the bills on London, it is not easy to say. Certainly this has played its part, for what the sterling market has witnessed in the fortnight past has been an absence of demand so complete that moderate offerings, if pressed, could break the rates to almost any figure. Prices in the same situation existed in October, 1873, when actual quotations for demand sterling fell to 4.76, the embarrassment of importers through the lack of bank accommodation being then increased by the market premium on gold. In 1873 the lack of saleable commodities caused a rapid and continuous raily in exchange: the Bank of England rate, too, standing at 6 per cent. The circumstances of this year, notably in the grain market, present in most respects an altogether different situation. It is at least interesting to observe that the London papers just arrived, though not medicating an immediate gold export to New York, admit that such a movement cahnot be long avoided." The Post's Comments,

NEW YORK, July 5.—A foolish rumor seems to have been circulated in London of the embarrassment of prominent railroad men and prices from the other side were considerably lower this morning, although the selling for that account amounted to a little over 3,000 shares. Still this had the effect of depressing values here from 1-2 to 3-4 per cent and gave the bears renewed courage and they were not slow to take advantage of the opporunity to hammer prices. The selling seemed principally to be for Chicago and short account. The bears, who had covered their lines after the announcebent, qresently began putting out their stocks again.

The rumor committee became industrious cash article sold up 1c, but the strength did not hold and the close showed the gain all wined out.

Corn was weak, partly in sympathy with wheat and in part due to the fine corn weather. The receipts were liberal also, and people in outside markets were not sending any orders to speak of. There was no activity in the trade at any time. The spread between July and September narrowed to 2c per bushel. July was not traded in to any great extent, but was firm even when wheat was showing weakness. July opfice at 39 1-4c and kept improving until it had reached 39 3-4c, the price of which closed Saturday at 39 3-8c. September opened at 42c, touched 42 1-8c. then gradually sank to 41 3-8c and closed at 41 1-2c.

The oat market was quiet and lower, partly in sympathy with wheat and corn and heavier offerings. The shorts bought freely yesterday on expectation of a big advance over the holidays, but the crop reports were even better than they have been lately, and the visible supply was also a disappointment, showing a good increase.

The provision market was very dull, but the weakness which accompanied business at the close of the previous week was succeeded by firmness. Hog receipts were liberal. The price quoted from the vards was about 10c over Saturday's rates. The carrying change from July to September was narrower in this than it was for the carrying of grain. Wright was credited with some buying of ribs, and lard was also well supported by the bulls. Sentember park showed no easier rates.

The feeling is one of intense nervousness and the bears have an easy matter to make an impression of values, as there is hardly any support or resistance to their attacks.

The Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock to consider the financial situation, but nothing important is looked for from this quarter. The London market closes tomorrow owing to the royal nuptials, and the bears will do their best to mark stocks down, although they are very chean at present prices.

ed, and the market is steady with a better undertone than of late. The pressure of cotton for southern account is noticeably less, and it is a feature of the situation that the market responds quickly to any favorable advices and fails to break upon the receipt of unfavorable news. The market closed quiet at about the highest prices of the day and within ide? points of Monday's figures. The strength of prices today would seem to indicate that any weak long interest that might have been in the market has been eliminated and values will probably respond readily to such influences as may be made for higher prices.

THE CHICAGO MAKKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 5.—The grain market on the board of trade was weak this morning. Pork, duil stead?. Lard and ribs somewhat higher. 'The animation which is usually found to succeed a holday was altogether wanting. Orders from outside, either to buy or sell, were conspicuously scarce. The bullish feeling, which was noticed on the curb on Monday, had given place to bearishness and instead of 70 3-4 and 71c bld for September wheat, as on Monday, there were sellers at the start today at 70 1-4, with an immediate decline to 70c and a further decline to 69 3-4c in the next few minutes. There was a narrowing of the spread between July and September to 5e per bushel in the course of the first half hour of the session. The weakness today had several contributing causes. Foreign markets were not encouraging. Liverpool was quoted steady and inactive. English stocks were reckoned to have increased 2,000.000-bushels last week. The board of trade cablegram made the extraordinary statement that in England heavy rains, succeeded by a protracted drought, had materially improved the crop prospects. The weather map here showed rain fairly well distributed in the Dakotas, where wheat was reported to have been previously suffering for the want of it. There was an increase of about 147,000 bushels in the stock of contract wheat in Chicago. These were the chief features of the early market news. The prife kept within a narrow range at the decline until after the result of the visible supply statement was published, immediately following which there was a rush of sellers and a rapid decline to 68 3-4c for September. The decrease, instead of amounting to between 3,00,000 and 4,000,000 bushels, as had been confidently expected, was only 761,000 bushels. The close was weak at the bottom figures of the day. July started out independently. It opened 3-8c lower than the closing of Saturday at 45c, and on a sharp demand for the cash article sold up 1c, but the strength did not hold and the cose showed the gain all wined out.

Total .

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager. CHICAGO, July 5.—There was nothing in the news this morning to assist in holding up grain prices. On the contrary, nearly every item of tews served to assist a decline. Cables were easier, crop reports were favorable in nearly all cases and the weather has been all that could be desired since Saturday. The decrease in the passage of wheat of 776,000 bushels, as reported Monday, was not enough to help prices. Wheat acted heavy from the start. Then came the visible supply figures only 765,000 bushels decrease, which was a great surprise to holders, as they had looked for from two to four millions decrease, and on this September declined to 68 7-8, which was 1 5-8 decline from Saturday's close.

The spread between July and September has materially lessened, which is but natural, as cash wheat is not now well held by carriers, and today will close about all open July contracts. Shipments for the week from Baltic and India ports, reported at 1,032,000 against 5,300,000 the previous week, had no sustaining effect on prices, as the figures are most likely incorrect.

The close shows no rally and seems very weak, but prices are so low that an advance might start at any moment.

Corn has shown weakness, but not so weak as many expected from the fine crop prospects, and it really acts stubborn. Car lot receipts for the three holidays were not so large as expected, which acted a little in favor of its stubborn position. The cash demand holds good and there appears to be plenty here and to come to supply the demand.

Outs show very little change, being slightly easier in sympathy with wheat, and corn, hogs and hog products are higher, even with very liberal receipts since our last market day. Cash meats and lard are in good demand. CHICAGO, July 5,-There was nothing Hubbard. Price & Co.'s Olreulan.

NEW YORK, July 5-Liverpool advices recort a better business doing in Manchester, with spinners disposed to engage freely for shipment of goods without securing the requisite amount of cotton, believing that present crop prospects will tend to cause a further decline in the Liverpool cotton market. During the holidays here the Liverpool market declined 3-6464-64d and epoend this morning at the lowest quotations recorded, but from this point a rally set in, under purchases for American account, and the market closed very steady with a better tone at an advance of 2-64d from the opening this morning. Notwithstanding the uncertainty felt in financial and commercial circles the cotton market resolutely refuses to decline, basing its strength upon the belief above noted, and upon the conviction that the business in Manchester will continue to exceed that of last season for many months to come. It is this conviction gradually gaining ground that sustains prices in this market, and merchants are not disposed to anticipate any further break in values unless the Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, July 5-[Special.]—Although the market made no very decided movement its general course today was an unpleasant surprise for the bears. Liverpool sent us a moderate decline and our opennig was at a loss of 5 points, August selling at 1.78. Soon after the call prices became easier and August declined to 7.76. Then there was a gradual rally, and while the market subsided withing special strength, there was a good undertone throughout the day and the close was steady at the highest prices, 7.85 being bid for August. It was said that the stubborness with which values were supported was in a great measure due to the tact that some of the New England spinners are uneasy at the crop outlook and are buying wherever the market is depressed. But whatever the cause, there was no approach to the weakness of today, but while crop accounts are so mixed Liverpool and Manchester will decide in which direction prices will move.

WEST END-ATLANTA.

The Marriage May Take Place Some of These Bright Days.

BUT IT DON'T LOOK LIKE IT NOW.

Mayor Nelms and Mayor Goodwin Still Playing Seven Up,

That little game of seven up Mayor Goodwin and Mayor Nelms sat down to play the other day over the question of annexing Atlanta to West End is waxing warm, The cards have been shuffled and dealt several times at committee meetings. Harry Stockdell took a hand and played out several big cards when he, as chairman of the committee of sewers and water, reported that West End needed nearly $50,000 of water pipes to start with. water pipes to start with.

Mayor Goodwin ran the cards again and called the committee on annexation together yesterday when it was heard definitely what West End would ask in the way of improvements and what Atlanta would be willing to give.

The two mayors were appointed as a

The two mayors were appointed as a committee to try and adjust the differences of what West End wants and what Atlanta will give, and so the game will continue strictly between the two worthy gentlemen who preside over the destinies of the two dities.

Mayor Nelms declares that he has a Jack up his coat sleeve and will turn it on Mayor Goodwin the first time the cards are dealt again. But Mayor Goodwin knows Atlanta—the marriage of the two cities.

It was really the purpose to hear the two reports of the two divisions of the committee on annexation. It will be remembered tee on annexation. It will be rememberedthat at the last meeting of the committee it was decided to split all of the subcommittees and allow the Atlanta half to say what Atlanta would give to get West Earl and allow West End's committeemen to say what they would ask to come into the city of Atlanta on terms of annexation.

Soon after the meeting was called to order the reports were called for and Judge of the committee, made the following report:

Atlanta's Report in Full.

Atlanta, Ga., July 5, 1893—To the Joint Committee from Atlanta and West End on the Annexation of West End: Your committee from Atlanta beg leave to submit the following report on the pending subject:

We find the faxable values of Atlanta property on the prevailing basis of asses ment here to be slightly in excess of ... $54,000,000 And that the ladebtedness of Atlanta is slightly less than ... 2,950,000 And the indebtedness, therefore, about 5 2-5 per cent of taxable values.

The assets of Atlanta, not including Grant park or lots in Oakland cemetery, aggregate at a low, conservative estimate, over ... $2,000,000 And consist chiefly of new and old waterworks plants, machinery, etc., sanitary land, stockade farm, police headquarters, high school and grammar school buildings and lots, fire department headquarters and engine houses, etc., etc.; besides considerable personal property.

The taxable values of West End property, according to the assessment there, amount to ... $2,000,000 But on the basis of assessment prevailing on Atlanta property would aggregate only about. ... $1,400,000 The indebtedness of West End is... 52,000 And 5 2-5 per centum on assessed values, on Atlanta basis of assessment would authorize indebtedness of West End is... 77,000 Dr in addition to that already contracted, 25,000 Assets of West End, approximately 25,000 We consider that a fair basis of annexation would be as follows:

We would further recommend that, in addition to this $25,000 that the taxes on real state and personal property in West End to upproximately, $43,000, be expended in work, approximately, $43,000, be expended in said two years as follows:

Another Meeting. Then by motion it was decided to allow the two mayors of the cities to fight it out.

As can be seen from the two reports, there is a considerable difference in what West End asks for and what Atlanta is willing and disposed to give.

The two mayors will try to reconcile the two reports as best flav can and will report to another meeting of the joint committee next Wednesday at 4 o'clock in the dealt again. But Mayor Goodwin knows all the fine points of the game and will be with him when he does it.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Goodwin in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. He stated that the object of the meeting was fully understood, it being for the purpose of continuing the conference looking to the annexation of West End to have to be ratified. West End's action will have to be ratified by the voters of West looking to the annexation of West End and the Atlanta committee's action will have to be ratified by the general council of this city.

JACKSON STREET PARK.

The Proposition of Buying the Chautauqua

Grounds Is Being Discussed.
"Why not purchase the chautauoua grounds n Jackson street." said a prominent citizen yesterday, "and convert it into a large park? If the chautauqua assembly should buy it, it would prove a magnificent investment." The idea seemed to meet with the approval of the group of men who were standing on the street corner near the grounds and a lengthy discussion followed.

There is not a location in Atlanta more suitably adapted to the purpose than the vacantiot in question. It was formerly known as the old circus grounds, but will be associated hereafter with the chantauqua assembly. On every side of the lot, and surrounding it like a belt, is the electric railway, which connects it with every part of the city.

The Decatur line connects with Decatur and all of the intermediate points along that route for a distance of nearly eight miles. The Boulevard line brings it in ready access to West End and all of the southwestern portion of the city. Then the Edzewood avenue line connects it with Inman park at one end and Whitehall street at the other. Those living in the northern part of the city can reach the grounds by only one transfer of cars. There is not a location in Atlanta more suit.

In addition to this the Houston street line

hased.

The lot is a large one and comprises three r four acres. It is bounded by Jackson and or four acres. It is bounded by Jackson and Irwin streets, and the entire surface of the ground is as level as a ballroom floor. If the vacant lot should be purchased by the chautauqua assembly it would certainly prove a good investment. In addition to the buildings, which would occupy only a small portion of the lot, the grounds could be beautified in such a way as to make it a most delightful page.

The encampment is on.

Soon the tramp of soldier boys in shining new uniforms and glittering brass buttons will be heard in the neighborhood of Camp Northen down at Griffin, and the clash of cavalry and the roar of artillery thunder over the field. Atlanta troops will not go to the encamp-

Atlanta troops will not go to the encampment this year. It is well known why they will not be there, the story having been told repeatedly in the newspapers that the state military advisory board has decided to have just half of the state forces in the camp this year, and Atlanta not being in the half to be there.

The following tells how the Savannah troops are getting ready for the encampment:

are getting ready for the encampment: Savannah, Ga., Juy 5.—(Specia.)—The Fifth regiment, Georgia cavalry, Lieutenant Colo-nel E. P. Miller commanding, left for the encampment tonight on a special train via the Central. The Georgia Hussars and two Liberty county companies go direct from Sa-vannah. Colonel W. W. Gordon, who is commander of the Fifth Georgia regiment, will be post commander during the first ten days of the encampment and Lieutenant Col-onel Miller will take charge of the regiment.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST.

Hot! Yesterday the weather bureau's standard thermometers on top of the postoffice building registered up to 95 degrees, 3 degrees building registered up to 95 degrees, 3 degrees bigher than on the 4th, and as late as 7 o'clock last night thermometers were reading as high as 90 degrees. Not only was yesterday the hottest day in Atlanta this year, but it was also within 5 degrees of being as hot as on any previous day since the opening of the weather bureau station in Atlanta in 1878. Warm weather continues in all other sections of the south. As near as Griffin, Ga, the thermometer was up to 100 degrees yesterday, as high as any temperature reported in the whole country, excepting that of 102 degrees at Dodge City, Kans. High temperatures were also reported all through the north yesterday except in some sections of the lake region, like in Chicago and Bunfalo, where the highest for the day was 74 degrees.

Jacksonville, Bunfalo and Hurd were the only cities to report appreciable amount of precipitation restorday, and in each of these cities the rainful: was barely enough to measure

AUGUSTA GETS IT,

And the Southern League Flag Will Fly in That City.

THE LEAGUE HAS A NEW PRESIDENT

Who Will Take Charge at Once-The New Beason Begins Today—National League Games,

The Southern League has a new president this morning.
Mr. J. B. Nicklin, of Chattanooga, was elected to that position by the league mem bers last night, and will assume control o the work this morning. And Augusta will fly the pennant for th first season of the league in 1893.

Both of these points were decided by the league meeting at the Kimball last night, and both were at once given out to the chief executive of the league since the sea son opened last April.

This morning Mr. Hart will surrender to Mr. Nicklin all the books, papers, accounts and money belonging to the league, and when the games start tomorrow morning the headquarters of the league will be found in Chattanooga. The league meeting was to have taken place yesterday morning at the Kimball, when the hour for the meeting rolled cround President Hart was on hand with his books and papers ready to turn them over to any ne the meeting might elect as his successor. But there were representatives from too few cities in the league to authorize the meeting and it was postponed until 7 o'clock in the evening and telegrams were sent out to the owners of the various clubs asking them to be present or to have representa

When the hour arrived Atlanta was present through Mr. R. C. Bosche, New Orleans through Charles Genslinger, Augusta through Mr. Stallings, Chaftanooga through Mr. Gus Schmelz, and the other towns through proxies sent in. Mr. Hart as president of the league was in the chair to act until his successor had been chosen and qualified.

At the meeting of the league in Augusta last week a committee consisting of Chattanooga, Augusta and Birmingham was appointed to present the name of a candidate for the place. Soon after President Hart called the meeting to order last night those present handed in their credentials and gave up the proxies they had received during the afternoon from the cities that couldn't be present.

For the presidency, Atlanta nominated J. B. Nicklin, and this nomination was seconded by New Orleans. The committee then gave its official sanction to Mr. Nicklin and he was practically elected unanimously, though as a matter of form a vote of the league will be taken by wire.

Mr. Hart sent out the telegrams last night and before midnight enough replies were received to warrant the declaration that Mr. Nicklin was elected. Augusta Wins by a Neck.

After the election of the presidency had been disposed of, the Augusta-Charleston dispute came up.

Mr. Stallings of the Augusta club was present and stated that his club had won the championship and demanded the flag. Before the controversy could be injected by the claims Charleston had made Tuesday, telegrams were received announcing that it had rained in Augusta, and that the game could not be played. The committee hav-ing the matter in hand after a careful in-vestigation of the situation decided that the pennant for the first half of the season should go to Augusta.

hould go to Augusta.
All of the books, papers and moneys be longing to the league will be surrendered to President Nicklin today, and then Mr to President Nicklin today, and then Mr. Hart will retire from the baseball arena of the Southern League for the present at least. No baseball organization has ever had a better or more zealous officer than the Southern League has had in Mr. Hart. He is one of the best posted baseball men in the country, and is thoroughly up in the work. He is careful, competent and honest and his administration of the affairs of the league has been such as to reflect credit upon him. No word of complaint can be brought against him and had not his health given way he would have remained at the head of the organization as long as he desired.

President Nicklin, Mr. Hart's successor, is one of the most promising young business men of the south. For years he has been connected with one of the leading banks of Chattanooga, and among the business men of Tennessee no one stands higher than Mr. Nicklin. He is a thorough financier and will take hold of the work in the best shape. Mr. Hart will spend two or three days with Mr. Nicklin instructing him in the work of the position and then with the aid Gus Schmelz can give him Mr. Nicklin will rapidly develop into one of the most competent and thorough baseball men the south has ever known.

It was Atlanta which first proposed the President Nicklin, Mr. Hart's successor,

Revolution In Eating

has been brought about by the introduction of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or indifferent butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstainentirely from everything of that kind.
To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar value, widening as it does, the range of what may be eaten and enjoyed. COTTOLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food-imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion. Mr. Nicklin was not very well known in the league, but he was vouched for by every one who had met him, and will doubtless prove an excellent officer. The Game Yesterday.

The game yesterdsy was one of the most listless that has been seen on the Atlanta grounds this season.

It was won by the Atlantas without any trouble and was played before a fair sized audience. The crowd seemed to enjoy the walkover the Atlantas had, and the boys were applicated plentifully.

Retiger was in the box for the Atlantas and the balance of the team was as it usually is. Powell, of the New Orleans, gave Black, an Atlanta boy, a trial, and the work he did was not bad. Had he been given the proper support the game would not have been as one-sided as it was by any means. But the support Black received was wretched enough to make him lose heart and drop a dead certain victory. In addition to the errors which the make him lose heart and drop a dead certain victory. In addition to the errors which the team made behind him Black was given a chance to see his support shirk everything. Hhe game was interesting after the third inning only in watching the Atlantas pile up

The management of the Atlanta team notified the people yesterday morning that the score of the game in Augusta between that team and the Charleston team would be reported by innings, at the ground. At the time the announcement went to print it was thought that the game would be piayed, but during the day if was ascertained that the game was off. Of course that prevented anything like a report on the bulletin boards. During the day, however, some one on the grounds perpetrated quite a joke on those out by sending to the scoreboard pieces of paper purporting to be the game as it was in progress. The joker had a good idea of an interesting race and made it a tie game after the Charlestons had been given up as winners. The crowd watched the figures go up on the board, and as the innings were recorded the applause came from the grand stand on the board, and as the innings were recorded the applause came from the grand stand and the bleachers. After the game had gone into the ninth inning and the score was a tie the joker sent a long note, telling the people who had been watching it that they were snoring, and that there had been no game.

The joke was quite funny to those who were on the inside, but there were many in the grand stand who did not think it at all funny. The man who perpetrated the joke succeeded in keeping himself unknown after the fake

No breakfast is complete without a cup of our famous Rijamo coffee. The Rijamo is growing in popularity every day, it is a combination coffee, so blended as to give the best results, both in strength and flavor. Why use poor coffee, wash coffee, mixed coffee, when you can always get our Rijamo? For four years it has possessed the same high quality, rich color and fine flavor that still characterizes it. We keep it only in the bean, fresh parched, but grind it when desired. Now, a word as to bread. Our Regal patent flour always gives the most uerfect results, whether used in pastry, bread or rolls. Do you want rolls pure, light and as white as snow? You can always have them by using our Regal patent flour. The Regal possesses all the nutritions qualities of the wheat, yet is as white as snow, and is ground so perfectly that it never fails to fise. We always buy it direct from the same mill, and it never varies. Don't be misled and let them tell you that such and such flour is as good as the Regal. Get the best at once, and the problem of good bread will be solved.

Another necessity in a good breakfast is good butter. Now, we believe that it is known by every one that they can always get good butter at our store. Not only good butter, but the best, pure genuine Jersey. Our butter, too, is kept scrupulously clean and nice. It is put up in one pound packages, wrapped in linen paper and kept in a refrigerator. It is not delivered at your house sour and mashy, with brown paper sticking to it, but each one of our drivers has an ice chest and the butter is delivered firm and clean. As to meats, for breakfast you can take your choice of spring chickens, of which we always keep a good stock, or of fine English breakfast bacon, or of the Ferrirs or Dove ham, or our dried beef, broiled, makes a nice, wholesome dish. For dinner, our head rice is always good. Our Saratoga chips are fresh and crisp. In relishes we have everything you can wish, such as L. and P. sance, tomato catsup, Young's Hotspur relish, pepper sauce, mush grade and of the very pest quanty.

Come and try us.

Tommy Faggans, the Idiot Murderer, Will Be Tried for Lunacy Friday-Other Items of General Interest.

The county commissioners held a short session yesterday morning, and they dis covered that figures are not always facts. The financial statement was exceedingly gratifying, as it showed that there was in the treasurer's hands $30,763.53 to keep up the county's business until in the fall-

Chairman Hunnicutt heard the figures read and after some deliberation decided to show up the facts. He arose and stated that the figures in the statement showed that the county had $30,763.53 when such was not the case. He took occasion to add further that the county was now in debt over $8,000.

There was a discussion about the work ing of some convicts. Chairman Hunni-cutt thought there should be some work done on the Sandtown road from Greer street to Flat Shoals. Mr. Collins objected and by the way of sustaining his objection made the statement that it would essary to take the convicts from another point, thus involving a cost of about other point, thus involving a cost of about $200 more or less. Dr. Nelms declared that he was for fixing the people's roads, and that he would cast his ballot accordingly. It was decided to finish the present work, which is on the Boulevard, and then take up the Sandtown work. In the meantime a portion of the Sandtown road will be rocked where it is needed.

The petition of Joseph Thompson to do a wholesale whisky business under license was accepted and granted.

A license was also granted Dr. C. O. Tyner, who desires in the future to sell whisky at wholesale at No. 30 Marietta street.

The County Commissioners and Official Is Where the Weekly Editors Will Assemble Next Week.

THEY WILL TAKE AN EXCURSION.

Secretary Barker Deserves a Great Deal of Credit for His Work-A Free Trip to Chicago.

The weekly press association bobs up serenely despite the depressing weather of the past few days, and the announcemade that the regular meeting will occur at Brunswick.

The meeting will be in session next Monday and Tuesday, and the remainder of week will be spent on a pleasant excursion in Florida, which was arranged by Corresponding Secretary Charles Bar-

The weekly press excursion of last year over six thousand miles of beautiful territory still lingers in the minds of the weekly editors, and it is safe to predict that the numbers on this trip will exceed those on the western excursion.

One day will be spent in Jacksonville, two days will be passed in St. Augustine and a day in Tampa.

On the return some time will be put in at Palatka, and a day will be spent at a station on the Georgia Southern. At the Palatka, and a day will be spent at a station on the Georgia Southern. At the two days' session in Brunswick there will be some very important business matters transacted, but as to what nature the weekly editors are keeping quiet.

There will be fifty or more editors in Atlanta on Monday, next, and these will leave for Brunswick on the 5 o'clock p.m. East Tennessee train. Already there have been about one hundred and fifty who have sent in applications for passes, and Secretary Barker has sent out only fifty or more. He says, however, that he will finish this work by Saturday. He states that the cause of the delay was a slight misunderstanding between himself and one of the roads.

The weekly editor is a jovial, genial specimen of the journalist, and he knows how to appreciate the good things of life. He is always smiling, and very rarely kicks at fate, or anything else for that matter, unless some one attempts to bulldoze him into lending out a year's subscription and then paying for it with ice in the winter. It is an aggregation of just such fellows that Mr. Barker is secretary of, and he makes a good one. He has arranged the Florida trip, just as he did the westen excursion, and the matter of transportation is always left with him.

Passes for the Editors to Chicago.

It has been generally misunderstood among the weekly fraternity that there

It has been generally misunderstood among the weekly fraternity that there would be no free transportation for the association as a body.

Secretary Barker states positively that he has made the arrangements for every editor who desires to go to the world's fair—to go and take his wife, free of charge as far as railway fare is concerned. The weekly editors are not going in a body, but may go whenever they desire.
